WEATHER

Partly cloudy with little change in temperature expected for today with a slight chance of showers.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Cloudy, overcast skies will be the weather picture today with temperatures in the mid 70's. It will turn cooler tonight with a chance of intermittent thundershowers. The overnight low should be in the upper 50's. Sunrise today was at 6:35 a.m.; sunset will be at 8:11 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: high 67 degrees; low 54 degrees; there was .17 inches of precipitation recorded.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level 1327.78 (desired summer pool level 1328, maximum 1365) Out flow temperature 67 degrees; upper reservoir 70 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 3.61 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

Glen A. Cosby, branch manager of Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co., has accepted chairmanship of the Warren Industrial Management Association affiliated with the YMCA. The announcement was made by the Association President Richard Moll, personnel manager of Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron Co. Page B1.

Frank A. Fago, who assumed the duties of acting postmaster on July 28, was one of three Pennsylvanians nominated yesterday by the President for an appointment to postmaster. Page One.

Bell Telephone Company yesterday received what appeared to be a bill for Yellow Pages advertising. The IBM card resembling those used by Bell for billing was in fact a form soliciting advertisements from local firms for regional or national advertising directories. Page A2.

THE NATION

During testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, the President of the National Association of Manufacturers said the organization endorsed a tax increase to reduce an "intolerable" budget deficit, but added that he believed that the increase could and should be smaller than the 10 per cent surtax proposed by President Johnson.

As some polls continued to show a drop in President Johnson's popularity, it was learned that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has privately asked some key Republican leaders to withhold their support from Richard M. Nixon as the 1968 Republican presidential candidate. Despite the pre-convention political maneuvering, Reagan's repeated public position has been that he is not himself a national candidate.

THE WORLD

Two American planes were shot down over Communist China yesterday after completing bombing runs against targets near Hanoi. Peking claimed that one of the four crewmen aboard the planes was captured. The Chinese said their jets had shot down the two Navy planes, but a Pentagon spokesman said it had not been determined whether the planes had been downed by North Vietnamese or Chinese aircraft.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, in a radio speech broadcast to a nationwide audience, declared that the South Vietnamese government was not trying to "sabotage" the balloting in the national elections on Sept. 3, and promised that the elections would be "completely honest and impartial."

MOSCOW — In a diplomatic note made public in Moscow, the Soviet Union warned Communist China that recent actions against Soviet ships, particularly the Svirsk and her crew in the Chinese port of Dairen, made doubtful the continuation of shipping between the two countries. The protest note contained a hint that the Soviet Union was considering halting trade with Peking.

SPORTS

Jim McMeans hurled three-hit shutout ball and Nichols Service Center scored single runs in the third and fourth innings to defeat Betts Machine, 2-0 last night and claim the second half title in the City Softball League. The final three-game series between Nichols and Warren Auto Clinic starts tomorrow night. Page A5.

Kansas City Athletics owner Charles O. Finley followed Sunday's firing of manager Alvin Dark by firing player representative Jack Aker and giving first baseman Bud Harrelson his unconditional release for their criticism of his action. Page A6.

Delegates of Latin American boxing organizations rapped the World Boxing Association yesterday for control by the United States, citing the dethronement of Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion as an example of this country's domination of the organization. Page A6.

The Chicago White Sox edged New York, 4-3 to move into a tie for the American League with the idle Minnesota Twins. In the National League, Houston routed the St. Louis Cards, 11-4. Page A5.

MIGs Over China Down U.S. Planes

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Pentagon said that two United States Navy jets were shot down yesterday over Communist China after having veered off course. The official Chinese press agency, Hsinhua, said the planes had "flagrantly intruded" into Chinese air space in "an act of deliberate war provocation" and had been downed over the Kwangsi Chuan Autonomous Region by the Chinese Air Force. Shinhua said one of the American pilots had been captured. Each plane carried a two-man crew.

Pentagon officials acknowledged that the Navy planes, Grumman A-6A intruders, had been downed by MIG's, but they added that they could not be sure whether the planes were North Vietnamese or Chinese.

Warren Man Is Charged With Assault

A 43-year-old Warren man was arrested early Sunday morning and charged with assault with intent to ravish, according to Warren Borough police.

Police said Alfred Louis Leidwinger of Second ave. was arrested shortly before 1:30 a.m. following an incident which involved a teenage girl. Leidwinger appeared before Peace Justice Fred Berry following his arrest, according to police. He was later released on bail, police said.

Manufacturers Say Tax Hike Necessary

By EILEEN SHANAHAN
(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The National Association of Manufacturers endorsed a tax increase yesterday as necessary to reduce an "intolerable" budget deficit that administration officials have said might go as high as $29 billion.

But W. P. Gullander, The N.A.M. president, told the House ways and Means Committee that he believed the increase could and should be smaller than the 10 per cent proposed by President Johnson. In addition, he urged the committee to enact the tax rise for only one year — not the 21 months for individuals and two years for corporations that the President proposed.

"What we fear," Gullander said, in explaining his advocacy of a one-year limit on the tax increase, "is that the longer this source of revenue remains available, the more likely the federal government is to become dependent on it . . . in other words, we see a danger that this new source of revenue could reduce the pressure for regaining control over spending trends." He advocated increased efforts to reduce government spending and said that the main

FOLLOWING APPEAL BY SHAFER

State Budget Action Taken

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer appealed yesterday for a speedy solution to the tax and budget stalemate and the Republican-controlled House Appropriations Committee responded by reporting the $1.46 billion general appropriations bill to the floor. "The time is how to put our commitments on the line for Pennsylvania," Shafer said in his third fiscal address to a joint session of the House and Senate. "We have studied the problem of the budget for four months. We have debated the problem of new taxes for two months. It is not time we need now. It is action. No sooner had Shafer finished his five-page, 17 minute address, carried live by radio and television, than the Appropriations Committee gave its approval to the $1.46 billion measure which would finance most state spending in the new fiscal year. The general appropriations bill passed the Senate last week. Shafer, in a speech which pointedly avoided any attacks on the House Democrats who have been blocking the tax and budget issues for four months, suggested passage of this measure was the first step toward solution of the fiscal impasse. "We hope to move the bill Wednesday," commented House Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson. Minority Leader Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, pledged an all-out attempt to cut the bill in floor debate. "This is another mouse trap," Fineman declared angrily. "He

Prominent Warren Jeweler Dies at 67

Albert Devere Kirberger, 67, of 351 Buchanan St., Warren, died at Warren General Hospital at 5:25 p.m. Monday, August 21, 1967.

A highly esteemed lifelong resident of Warren, he was born July 18, 1900, in Warren. After attending Warren schools, Albert Devere Kirberger was graduated from Culver Military Academy. He served as 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Tank Corps during World War I.

Mr. Kirberger was a member of the Conewango Club, Conewango Valley Country Club, North Star Lodge 241 Free and Accepted Masons; Zeta Zeta Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine; Warren County Shrine Club; the Gold Coast, Deerfield Beach, Florida, Shrine Club; also he was Past Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, Warren Lodge No. 223.

He was a member of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church.

On December 31, 1964, Albert Devere Kirberger retired from business, and closed the doors on A. C. Kirberger and Son Jewelers, which had been in business without interruption for 94 years. It was founded in 1870 by Morek Brothers, cousins of his father, the late Albert C. Kirberger, who became a partner in 1900 and sole owner in 1907. Albert De-

Fires, Looting in New Haven Continue

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Fires and looting broke out in several Negro neighborhoods last night for the third straight night.

City and State Police were kept jumping as incidents were reported in a widening area, despite an 8 p.m. curfew and a state of emergency marked by reinforcements of state troops.

In a three-hour period ending at 10 p.m. 24 fires were reported, half of them in houses. Most of the action took place in the area known as the Hill section—predominantly Negro.

A city spokesman said the 11 fire calls — including three minor house fires and a larger one in a commercial building—were more than had been reported in the previous two days.

"There's quite a bit of breaking going on now," he said at 8:45 p.m.

Arrests reached a total of 260, 11 of them between 4 and 8 p.m. yesterday. Charges included inciting to injure persons and property, breaking and entering and breach of the peace, police said.

Mayor Richard C. Lee, upset over the incidents in his city, imposed the curfew Sunday night and declared a state of emergency.

Some 200 state police bolstered the city's patrolmen Sunday night and were ready to do

3 Flags Project Is Said to be Lagging

Members of the Warren County Development Association met at the Rouse Home last night to conduct their August meeting.

Before the meeting was called to order, County Commissioner D. H. Lay conducted a tour of the new addition to the home.

The major portion of the two-hour session that followed was devoted to a discussion of the preparations that could be made to assist industrialists in locating in the county. A listing of sites and buildings available was considered to be of most immediate importance by President Joe McAmbly.

A report of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau was presented by Charles Tranter, director, in which he stated that progress in shaping up the Three Flags development was lagging at the present time, but some favorable action should be forthcoming in the near future.

Tranter also said that progress was being made on the proposed historical drama that would highlight the past of the area.

Later, Robert Peterson reported on the latest developments regarding county highways and stated that at a meeting in November a plan for a road up Hatch Run and down Hemlock Run to the Allegheny River would be presented to highway officials.

Lay reported that gravel was being stockpiled along the Scandia Road, indicating that improvement of this heavily traveled road should be started in the near future.

The meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Demo Leader Says Shafer's Talk Untimely

HARRISBURG (AP) — House Minority Leader Herbert Fineman charged that Gov. Shafer's fiscal message to the legislature yesterday was "ill-timed and ill-advised."

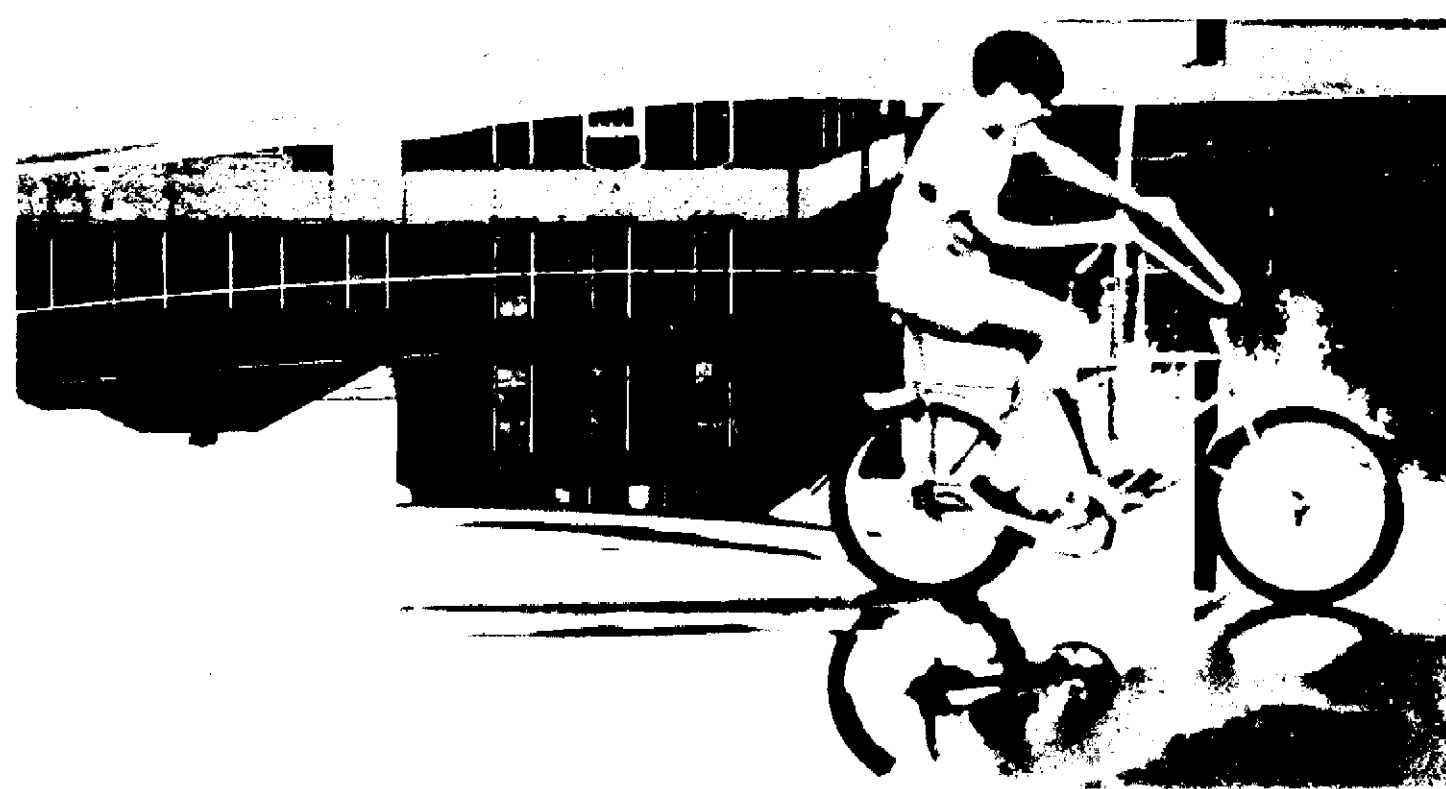

In the message, delivered to a joint session of the House and Senate, the governor called for immediate passage of the $1.5 billion general appropriations bill to finance state government operations and services for the current fiscal year.

"His sole intention is to exert pressure on the legislature so that it will commit itself to raise taxes by $300 million," Fineman, D-Philadelphia, said in a floor speech after the governor's address.

Fineman said approval of the bill without the budget cuts proposed by Democrats would harm bipartisan negotiations. The talks are aimed at resolving the dispute over Shafer's total $1.791 billion budget and $267 million tax program.

House Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny, argued that passage of the general appropriations bill would help, not hinder, negotiations, since the area of dispute would be narrowed.

Three Autos Damaged in Route 27 Crash

Three persons escaped serious injury Sunday night in a three-car accident at 9:10 p.m. on Route 27 in Brokenstraw township.

State Police trooper Max J. Bizzak of the Warren substation, who is continuing the investigation, said three cars operated by David A. Littlefield, 26, of Youngsville, and Dennis Feimlee, 19, of 91 Grove st., Oil City, were stopped on the highway, the former facing south, the latter facing north.

The Feimlee vehicle, police said, was stuck in the mud and Littlefield had stopped to assist. While Littlefield was in the process of hooking a chain onto the stranded car, a third vehicle, driven by Ann S. Lowe, of 448 E. Main st., Youngsville, traveling south, ran off the highway, according to police.

Bizzak said the Lowe car struck the Littlefield vehicle, causing it to collide with the Feimlee auto.

The driver of the Lowe car, Feimlee, and a passenger in Feimlee's car, William Bittenbender, 16, of 1126 W. First st., Oil City, were treated and released at Warren General Hospital, police said.

Total damage in the mishap was listed at $1500, according to police.

Clark proposed Saturday that the group convert the letters into an abbreviation for "Let's Support Democrats."

'LSD' Said Bad Motto for Young Demos

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno said yesterday that Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., showed a limited vocabulary by suggesting that Pennsylvania Young Democrats adopt the slogan, "LSD."

Speaking at a luncheon during his tour to test reaction to a possible Senate bid in 1968, the justice said Clark "climbed to the top of the volcano of destructive capacity when he urged the Young Democrats of Pennsylvania to adopt 'LSD' as their motto."

Clark proposed Saturday that the group convert the letters into an abbreviation for "Let's Support Democrats."

"You will have to find ways to crack through the shell of apathy which the hippies have built between their imaginary world and the world they, and we, really live in," Clark said.

Hit and Run Victim Serious

TITUSVILLE — Charles Burrows, 30, of 108 Center st., struck by a hit and run driver in Titusville Friday night, has been transferred from Titusville Hospital to Hamot Hospital in Erie.

Burrows was seriously injured when he was struck down in front of the VFW Club. He was knocked approximately 12 feet by the impact.

The unidentified driver of the hit and run vehicle eluded a Titusville woman motorist who pursued in a high speed chase.

Titusville police, who have an accurate description of the car as continuing their investigation.

Late Accident

State police of the local substation reported an accident on Conewango ave. ext. last night at 11:55. Police said an ambulance had been dispatched to the scene. It was believed that two cars were involved. No further details were available at press time.

Planes

intervene in the fighting," the Arkansas Democrat said. "They're pretty close to being in the war when they are shooting down our planes over their territory."

Another critic of bombing policy, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said the incident "illustrates the risk of a wider war in attacks along the Chinese border."

Phil G. Goulding, Assistant Secretary of Defense, said the two Navy jets, operating off the Carrier Constellation, hit the Ducon railroad yard, about seven miles north of Hanoi, at about 1 p.m. (1 a.m. E.D.S.T.)

The target was about 75 miles from the Chinese border.

Other sources said that four Navy aircraft had been involved in the Ducon strike and that one of the planes, on returning to the Constellation, reported that the errant planes had developed "difficulties" with their navigational equipment and were last seen headed north-east.

One official disclosed that unspecified American tracking aircraft had noticed the planes in trouble and had radioed a warning that they were getting dangerously close to the border. But it is not clear whether the pilots heard the report. The pilot who made it back safely to the carrier said he had not picked up such warnings on his radio.

The sources said an eastward heading would have brought the planes into the heavily defended Haiphong area. The area immediately to the north, the normal withdrawal route, was blocked by thunderstorms.

In attempting to fly around the storms, which could have "ripped the planes apart," according to one official, the aircraft moved toward China and were intercepted by North Vietnamese jets.

Goulding said it could not be determined whether Chinese or North Vietnamese planes had downed the navy jets. Another source said the planes were presumed to be Chinese "because the aircraft are believed to have gone down a very few miles into Chinese territory."

Officials were reluctant to explain how they could determine such detail. The Navy pilots may have been in radio contact with other American planes or the aerial combat may have been witnessed on airborne long-range American radar or the voices of the attacking pilots may have been picked up.

The A-6 is an all-weather strike aircraft in the Navy or the Air Force. The $3 million aircraft is packed with the latest navigational gear enabling it to find targets in darkness or bad weather.

thought the two planes' navigational equipment might have been damaged during or after their bomb run, or electrical storms might have interfered with the systems.

At their top speed of about 700 miles an hour, the planes' flying time from the target area to the Chinese border would be about six minutes, it was noted.

The Pilots of the two-man aircraft may have had their hands full trying to elude enemy jets, particularly if supersonic MIG-21's were after them, officials said.

said Julio Diaz was shot in the chest by the proprietor, Edward Thomas, after Diaz had threatened him with a knife.

But there have been numerous complaints about lack of employment opportunities and of decent low-cost housing, especially in the city's so called Hill section — scene of most of the disturbances.

Russia Raises Prospect of China Trade Cut

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union all but threatened to break trade agreements with China unless Peking stops harassing Soviet ships, in a protest note made public yesterday.

A Foreign Ministry note, the fourth to China in nine days, carefully stopped short of actually threatening a break in trade ties.

But it warned that Chinese interference with Soviet ships at the port of Dairen "placed in question the implementation of the agreements on trade and shipping between the U.S.S.R. and the P.R.C. (Chinese Peoples Republic)."

The Russians appeared determined to prevent the current flareup of friction from endangering diplomatic relations and for that reason were limiting their warnings to the field of trade.

Soviet-Chinese trade totaled around $400 million in 1965, the latest year for which a figure is available. It is assumed to have diminished since then as relations worsened.

Face Charges In Beer Theft

BRADFORD—Two local youths face multiple charges in connection with a beer theft here. They are charged with breaking into a local beer distributing business and driving away with a truckload of beer—without opening the door.

As the truck crashed through the door, beer by the bottle and by the case began spilling. Police called as a result of the noise, followed the beer trail and spotted two men leaving the truck and ducking into roadside brush.

Lodged in McKean County jail on a charge of larceny and a 90 day sentence on a charge of drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest are Richard Miller, 19 and Edward Frederick, 20.

The Weather Bureau is a component of the Environmental Science Services Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

"It might affect negotiations," Kline said. "I feel sure we can come to an agreement by the first of the month."

SENT TO LOCAL BELL OFFICE

'Yellow Pages' Bill is Phoney

Bell Telephone Company's local office yesterday received what appeared to be a bill for Yellow Pages advertising.

A card resembling those used by Bell Telephone for billing was in fact a form soliciting advertisements from local firms for regional or national advertising directories.

Robert Dilks, local manager for Bell Telephone, said "Classified Listings" forms which area business and professional customers have been receiving in the mail are not from the telephone company.

Dilks explained that the forms have been mailed to local customers from out-of-state firms. He said a close examination will show they are not bills, but solicitations for advertising in a directory that is in no way connected with Bell.

Last January several local businessmen were fooled into paying what they thought were bills for Yellow Pages ads—but were not.

According to Dilks, many of Bell Telephone's customers have questioned the forms. "We have told them there is no connection between the forms and our Yellow Pages directory advertising bills," he said. Dilks added, "The Rueben H. Donnelly Telephone Directory Company is the sole advertising representative for the Bell Company and any directory advertising charges are billed on a monthly basis along with the regular telephone charges."

Put out by an outfit in California called "Classified Advertising Publishers" with a post office box in Tarzana, the apparent bills are printed on what look like IBM cards. At the top is a drawing of an open yellow book like the drawing Bell Telephone uses to advertise Yellow Pages, except that this book does not have a phone beside it, and in the center of the book is printed "Classified Listings". The type style used is similar to that used by Bell Telephone in its directories.

The smallest print on the face of the cards says "See reverse side for purpose and conditions. This is a proposal form and not a renewal, invoice, or bill for advertising."

Jamestown's Schools Open September 7

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Sixty-five new teachers will enter the Jamestown public school system when classes begin on Sept. 7 for an estimated 8,633 students.

In making the announcement, school superintendent Dr. Harold L. O'Neill noted that the projected enrollment is down slightly from the number in attendance last October.

A slight decrease is expected in the elementary grades, while enrollment in the junior high schools is expected to remain the same. A small increase is expected in the senior high school.

Seven hundred and eight students are expected to enroll in kindergarten classes, 4,090 in grades one through six, 1,915 in junior high school, and 1,920 in the senior high school. Not included in the above figures are another 1000 students who attend the parochial schools.

Dr. O'Neill noted that crowding exists in some of the city's schools, including Euclid, Busch, and Love elementary schools, and in Lincoln Junior High School. The School superintendent said that two portable classrooms will be used at Busch School and one at Love School to alleviate some of the crowding.

Principals and department heads will conduct their initial meeting of the year at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 1, in the school administration building. Teachers have been requested to report to their respective schools on Sept. 5.

Probe Cause Of Derailment

KANE — Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officials Sunday were still investigating causes of a seven-car derailment at 5:15 p.m. Saturday some three miles south of Kane.

The seven cars, part of a 15-car freight train, included four cars filled with coal and three with glass bottles. The train, officials said, was known locally as the Kane, Mt. Jewett, Marienville Turn Train.

Some 200 feet of track was torn up and coal strewn over a wide territory. No estimate of damages to the seven cars could be ascertained Sunday night.

Stricken Plane Lands at Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An American Airlines Boeing 707 jet made an emergency landing yesterday at Buffalo International Airport after the pilot reported one engine failed to operate.

The airliner, flight 223 enroute from Newark, N.J., to Detroit, Mich., landed safely, as a crash crew was ready at the scene.

The flight was to resume a few hours later, an airline spokesman said.

REAGAN DENIES CANDIDACY

"I'm not a candidate," Gov. Ronald Reagan of California tells newsmen in response to questions Friday. He said he was "flattered" by a poll of 1964 GOP presidential convention delegates that showed him as a strong second choice after former vice president Richard Nixon. Meanwhile, reports were circulating in Washington that Reagan had asked key Republican leaders to withhold support for Nixon as the party's presidential candidate.

ASKING SUPPORT OF NIXON WITHHELD

Reagan Said Knifing Nixon

By WARREN WEAVER JR.
(C) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Gov. Ronald Reagan has privately asked key conservative Republican leaders to withhold their support from Richard M. Nixon as the party's presidential candidate in 1968.

The California governor has not tried to persuade these Republicans to commit themselves to him at this stage of the political maneuvering. His repeated public position is that he is not a national candidate.

The men to whom Reagan has talked, however, believe he would not attempt to prevent important backing from solidifying behind the former vice president unless he was considering becoming an active candidate himself.

When informed of the reports circulating in Washington, a press spokesman in Reagan's office in Sacramento denied them "categorically."

A month ago, Nixon and Reagan held a well-publicized meeting at Bohemian Grove, 50 miles north of San Francisco. Their conversation, as reported by the governor, was confined to the importance of Republican unity and the need to unite behind a winning candidate.

Not publicized was the fact that Reagan also talked in the Redwoods that weekend with Sen. John G. Tower of Texas and Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. of Florida, men whose delegations will play a major role in the selection of the Republican nominee at Miami beach next summer.

Reagan reportedly asked both politicians whether they had made any commitment to deliver their states' delegates to Nixon. When they replied that they had not, he urged them not to undertake such an obligation, at least for some time.

Both Kirk and Tower have indicated interest in running as "favorite son" candidates in their respective state primaries next spring.

Nixon supporters have been working to put together a political base for the former vice president in the South. The loss of both Florida and Texas to Reagan, if it should take place, would deprive such a base of both its eastern and western anchors.

Until news of the Bohemian Grove conversations began to spread, most Southern Republican leaders regarded Nixon as the only conservative candidate in the field. Now they view Reagan as a secret but serious competitor for their support.

Former Senator Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee in 1964 and an announced Nixon backer, said in June that if Reagan became a candidate the supporters of both men would have to "sit down and talk because they are pretty much out of the same box."

Reagan has said he would run as California's favorite son next year to unify his state's Republicans. He has also said he would leave his name in primary contests that would require a renunciation of White House interest to get off the ballot.

This would not put him in the first primary, in New Hampshire in March, but would probably pit him against Nixon and Gov. George Romney of Michigan, at the least, in Wisconsin in April and Nebraska and Oregon in May.

Customers Like New Price of 'Pet' Milk

By BEN DE FOREST
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) —

People began queuing up in front of the United Dairy Farmers' new pet shop on a side street long before it opened for business yesterday. The big attraction, however, wasn't pet supplies but milk at 79 cents a gallon — 29 cents less than they can buy at other stores under state regulations.

By the time the farmers were ready to welcome their first customers, 25 men, women, and children filled into the store past a display window exhibiting canned pet food, plastic bags of dog food, a handful of dog collars and a "genuine rawhide leather bone with a flavor dogs love."

Inside, the farmers drew milk from a 240-gallon tank. At 79 cents a gallon, it was a bargain for housewives who have been paying $1.08 a gallon at stores under regulation of the State Milk Control Commission.

Dairy farmers figure it's a bargain for them, too. "We're cutting out the middleman and passing the saving along to the farmer," said Ernest Hayes, president of the United Dairy Farmers.

A sign on the wall said, "This milk is sold for pets, and the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission does not allow it to be sold for human consumption."

But the same sign explained that the milk was "pasteurized, homogenized, farm inspected, state laboratory inspected, bacteria and thermadoric count meets state requirements."

"We're telling them it's for pets only, but what people do in their own home we have no control over," remarked Hayes.

Mrs. Leonard Noonan, who has one dog and four children, drove 10 miles from her suburban Mount Lebanon home to buy three gallons. "This is great," she said, "I'm from New Jersey originally, and we never paid as much for milk there as we have in Pennsylvania."

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Stoehr, who have five children, a dog and puppies, also were in line. "I'll taste it," said Mrs. Stoehr. "If it tastes all right to me, I don't know why we shouldn't use it for the family to drink."

Hayes figures a farmer will get 50 to 55 cents back on each gallon sold under the pet shop plan. By marketing milk through an established dairy and under state regulations, Hayes says, the farmer gets only 40 cents on the gallon.

Ky Vows 'Impartial And Honest' Voting

By TOM BUCKLEY
(C) N.Y. Times News Service

SAIGON—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky promised in a radio broadcast to the nation last night that the national elections on Sept. 3 "will be completely honest and impartial."

Charges by civilian candidates of government intimidation and noncooperation, the premier said, "not only have created suspicion among the people but have also discouraged the allied nations."

The premier, who is the candidate for vice president on the ticket headed by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, declared that the government was not trying to "sabotage" the balloting.

He called on the 10 civilian tickets to join with him in the building of democracy in Vietnam, and promised them his full cooperation in their campaigning.

Attacks on national leaders were easy to launch, Ky said; it was more difficult to "contribute one's share to building up the prestige of a class of leaders without whom this country will be leaderless."

The premier urged the nation's 5 million voters "to closely follow the electoral campaign so that you may judiciously choose future leaders for the nation."

Earlier the premier, at an award ceremony for composers and authors, stated ruefully that he had the soul of an artist rather than a politician.

"My favorite occupation, if I had the time," he said with a smile, "would be to write poems for my wife's entertainment."

The audience, which included many of South Vietnam's most prominent entertainers, laughed in the direction of the premier's statuesque wife.

Man Charged with Arson In Death of Wife, Kids

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — A rural St. Cloud man who officers said has admitted responsibility in the death of his wife and four small children was arraigned late yesterday before St. Cloud Municipal Judge Wendell Y. Henning on a charge of aggravated arson.

David Hoskins, 30, demanded preliminary hearing and Henning set it for 10 a.m. Sept. 7. Henning also set bail at $50,000 and Hoskins was remanded to the Stearns County Jail in lieu of bond being posted.

Hoskins stood straight while the arson charge was read to the court. He braced himself by holding onto a banister.

The complaint, signed by the Stearns County sheriff, said in part: "He put his three older children, Julie 7, Darla Lee 4, and Linda Joan 2, to bed at his home . . . while said children were still in bed and asleep . . . he set said fire by spreading gasoline throughout the first floor of said house and ignited it."

The sea coast of Canada comprises some 17,860 miles of mainland and 41,810 miles of islands.

Senate Bill Would Overhaul Student Loans

HARRISBURG (AP) — Three top Senate Republicans introduced a bill yesterday that would overhaul the state scholarship and loan program and require college students to pay back half the state money they receive. Under the present scholarship program, it is possible for a college student to obtain a $1,200 scholarship each year. None of it has to be repaid.

The current loan program permits a student to borrow money and repay it over a long period at low interest.

The new proposal would establish a scholarship-loan not to exceed $1,200 per student each year, up to a maximum of $5,000 per student.

Each scholarship-loan would be composed of equal amounts of scholarship grant and loan, in other words, $500 each.

Under a $1,200 scholarship-loan, the $600 loan would have to be repaid within 15 years.

As now, the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance would handle the new program beginning Jan. 1. A Scholarship-Loan Fund would be established in the state treasury.

"We have not seen the bill," Hugh E. Flaherty, Gov. Shafer's legislative secretary said. "The administration is taking no position on it now."

The bill was introduced by Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, Appropriations Chairman George N. Wade and Caucus Chairman John H. Ware III.

Also introduced was a bipartisan bill that would make it a felony to incite to riot. Presently this offense is a misdemeanor.

Warning For the Next Time

Last Friday night's violent wind-storm that caused a considerable amount of damage at the Wolf Run Marina and upset a number of sail boats should serve as an indication that some thought should be given to what could happen with the next one.

Luckily this one came along on a rain-threatened Friday night when use of the lake was at a minimum. Something serious could have developed if a wind of the same proportion happened to hit on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon with the same suddenness.

Stranded and capsized boats may have been in serious trouble at many points, all in need of help in the least possible amount of lost time. And with 12,000 acres to cover the job would certainly be beyond the capabilities of the single patrol boat of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. It would also be beyond the capabilities of the additional federal agency boats that could be quickly called to action.

Yet the solution to this dilemma

Who Will Swim for L.B.J.?

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, MASS. — It has been reliably reported by Peking radio that 500,000 civilians and soldiers swam the Yangtze River near Wuhan early this month to celebrate the triumph of Mao Tse-tung's thoughts and principles.

It was a magnificent gesture on the part of the Chinese people to honor the revered chairman of their Communist Party. The thought then occurred to me that since so many people were on vacation in August in the United States, perhaps some of them would like to swim for President Johnson. I didn't expect to get 500,000 people at the outset, but I must admit I was hoping to get more people than I finally did.

I started recruiting swimmers on the island of Martha's Vineyard where I am staying for the month. I went down to the beach and said to several friends, "Anybody for a swim?"

About six people said they would like to go in.

"Before you go I better warn you that this isn't an ordinary swim. What we're doing is swimming for President Johnson to celebrate his great triumphs of the past year."

All six sat down again on the sand.

One swimmer said, "The water's too cold."

Another added, "I've got a cramp."

A third person, who had at one time worked for the President, said, "I just ate lunch."

"Now that's no way to be," I said angrily. "Five hundred thousand Chinese swam for Mao and the least we can do is show President Johnson we support him with the same fervor."

"Would it be okay if I treaded water?" someone asked.

"No," I said. "You've got to swim. Look, if we swam from Vineyard Haven to West Chop shouting President Johnson's thoughts as we go, it would not only be great for the President, but we'd feel better, too."

"How do we know what President Johnson's thoughts are?" was the next question.

"We could shout slogans from his speeches," I said.

"Such as?"

"We're winning the war in Vietnam," "Gov. Romney can't control his people," "Go to church on Sunday" and "Your President is doing the best he can."

"I hear there are jellyfish in the water," someone in the crowd said.

"Excuses, excuses," I cried in anguish. "Our President is facing insurmountable problems, and the whole Communist world believes this country is torn asunder. One lousy swim for President Johnson would show the Commies that on the big questions America is united."

"Couldn't we snorkel instead?"

"No, no, no. We've got to swim."

"I don't want to get my bathing suit wet."

"All right," I said. "But someday in the future, when you're all working as bus boys in a Red Chinese country club, I hope you'll remember the day you refused to swim for our leader."

"I have an idea," one of the party said. "Why don't you go across the sound and see if you can recruit some swimmers for Mr. Johnson over on Cape Cod?"

"Where?" I asked.

"Well, you could try Hyannis Port for a start."

structures at around 4.66 against 4.81 in 1966 and 4.93 per 1,000 in 1965.

This pattern of a tightening housing supply is of profound bread-and-butter importance to all who are building, buying or selling houses.

The average price of a new house was at $23,300 in May, up 23.3 per cent over May, 1962, and with the prices of housing materials and construction manpower climbing fast, this uptrend will persist.

Against this background, it is imperative that the supply of funds for housing be kept ample enough to support a rising volume of homebuilding to help slow the rise in housing prices and rents.

But in face of these obvious demand - expanding forces, homebuilding was forced into a tailspin by 1966's credit pinch, a squeeze which became so brutal in summer-fall that mortgage credit simply disappeared in areas from coast to coast.

In October, new housing starts were down to an annual rate of only 826,000, a 21-year low. Even with the recovery which has occurred in 1967, starts now are at an annual rate of only 1,283,000.

The result has been a chain of events of which the trends cited above are only samples. To continue:

Item: There is only about one month's supply of vacant single family houses now available and only about 2.7 months' supply of rental units.

Item: The rental vacancy rate, according to the Census Bureau, is down to an eight-year low and the home-ownership vacancy rate is down to a seven-year low.

Item: The foreclosure rate is in a declining trend, too. The NAHB estimates the foreclosure rate per 1,000 of mortgaged

Lindsay And the Riots

An editor of a California journal telephoned to ask whether his political instincts were sound in supposing that if New York City endured the entire summer without a race riot, Mayor John Lindsay would be catapulted into national Republican prominence, like maybe President, or Vice-President. The question was interesting from several points of view, most conspicuously the assumption that any major city in the United States that is not given over during the summer to a race riot is a city which stands out like a diamond among zircons. Actually, New York has of course had its riot, nothing on the scale of Newark or Detroit, to be sure. On the other hand, what did happen technically qualifies New York as a riotous area. But anything New York engages in, she engages in in a great big inimitable metropolitan way. Only a riot of epic proportions would be suitable to her dignity.

Mayor John Lindsay has been pictured every day, or just short of every day, walking the streets of the troubled areas, smiling at the old folks, joking with the children, waving at the tradesmen, dictating notes to his amanuenses; tell the garbage people to clean up that back yard, tell the telephone companies to install a booth here, tell traffic control to put up a stop sign there, the police to put up another lamp-light here.

It remains to examine seriously the role of Mr. Lindsay as a riot-abolitionist, and to dwell on the role of the daily stroll as a prophylactic. It may have been on that account (the daily promenade), and then again it may not have been on that account, it may have been for utterly extraneous reasons.

The hard-bitten political analysts are being more cautious than they used to be. As quoted recently, one liberal observer notes wryly that the riots were bloodier in Detroit, whose mayor was deemed by the liberal community as exemplary, than in Los Angeles whose mayor was officially disapproved of by Senator Robert Kennedy. In other words, one cannot, by conventional means, reason from the welfareist or humanitarian dispositions of a particular mayor on over to the docility of the mob. But, perhaps for the very reason that the social schematists are desperate for objective explanations for riots, it may be that Mayor Lindsay's approach is sentimentally appealing.

He cares. That is the word. And that word is undeniably true. He does care. Mr. Lindsay, one can truly say, cares deeply that there should not be riots in his city, and would do anything within his power, excluding perhaps a couple of things, to keep them from happening. On the other hand, as much could reasonably be said of Mayor Samuel W. Vorty, a Democrat, and Mayor J. P. Cavanagh, also a Democrat.

Mr. Cavanagh almost certainly feels a great contempt for the Lindsay method of dissipating his days, feeling as Cavanagh does, that a mayor is better off presiding over substantive programs for the release of tensions. On the other hand, Mayor Cavanagh is hardly in a position to instruct us about successful riot-prevention, is he? And Mayor Lindsay is in a position to point to New York as an area in which riots have been relatively gentle.

But before the Lindsay manner becomes big time, i.e., before it is advanced as a national paradigm for the Republican Party, one should probably pause to consider its implications. Is a President Lindsay expected to patrol the streets of the major cities to calm the nerves of the rioters? And what about the international rioters? Is the Secretary of State properly engaged in walking up and down the Biafran frontier, grinning and winking at the dispirited? Would he then rush off to Wuhan, there to quiet the impulses of the Red Guards?

But seriously folks, as the comedians say: Mr. Lindsay's tactics are interesting. They suggest a reinforcement of the proposition that the medium is the message. That the way to communicate one's concern over rioting is simply to appear, shirt-sleeved, in a potentially riotous area. But then of course if the rioters are that easily tranquilized, the danger is remote. And if the Republican Party is that easily beguiled, the danger to the Democrats is similarly remote.

Letter To The Editor

SIR: A salute to Mrs. Fredericks and her clear statement of the facts concerning the Warren shopper and traffic.

I, for one, agree. Although the traffic light at Elm street was no doubt placed there to aid the shopper on foot to cross Pennsylvania avenue safely at that point, it would help move traffic off Penn ave. If it were at Franklin St. And if the lights were synchronized. That light is in a dangerous spot anyway because drivers come upon it suddenly and unexpectedly. I was a passenger in a car recently when only quick foot work and good tires and brakes prevented a crash-up. We were all thankful our driver had insisted on BUCKLED Seat Belts before hand.

Personally, I find it much easier to go East from the Conewango area via Fifth, Prospect and Madison streets. Tourists coming into Warren from the East and going North could be routed that way over Fifth St. bridge. NOT trucks, of course. A few by-passes over other streets would help too. How about more one-way streets in Warren? I am familiar with only one. I am in favor of Synchronized Traffic Lights! 'Ever try to make BOTH lights at Fourth and Third, going South on Hickory street? Impossible!'

OR ARE THEY TRYING TO SLOW DOWN TRAFFIC? ? ?

Pinning Hopes on Election

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is pinning his hopes for a Vietnam peace, say insiders, upon the South Vietnamese elections next month. The principal purpose of the elections, in LBJ's view, is to legitimize the South Vietnamese government. Then the United States can turn over to the new government the task of seeking a settlement.

The President is said to be willing to leave the truce negotiations up to the Vietnamese, North and South, who speak the same language and should determine their own future.

American forces would remain in the country, of course, as long as the new government needed them to prevent the North from imposing a military settlement upon the South.

It was to preserve the freedom of South Vietnam that the United States was asked to send in troops, not to wage aggressive war against North Vietnam. The bombing of the North was ordered to relieve the military American soldiers.

Memories of Mother

Every man has memories of his mother. Adoration fogs them. Mine was a short woman, completely ageless. In my mind, she was never young, never old. She was plump, fair of skin, and had bronze glints in her hair. She had more integrity than information, sharper instinct than sophistication.

She was born in June 1884 at Jersey Avenue and Eighth Street, Jersey City. Her father was a policeman. He earned $50 a month. They had flower boxes in the windows and there were 200 chickens to be fed before school each morning. Her name was Jenny Josephine Tier and she was raised to be a housekeeper.

Her mother taught her nothing except the making of beds, cooking, virtue, "neatness of person" (whatever that is), duty to God, and how to back gently into the doorbell when a suitor became ardent.

It wasn't much. When I was twelve, I fell in love with her. It was a sudden and sad emotion. In the winter, I sat reading in the afternoons with my stockings feet in the oven, watching her over the edge of the book. I knew then that she was everything I could never be.

She did the wash in the kitchen in a galvanized tub. The long underwear froze stiff on the clotheslines. She was the daughter of a cop, and she married one. The pay was never good enough. The Bishops were always in debt. Mr. Goldman, the grocer, kept a book with purchases marked on lined pages, and he kept telling my father to please not worry about the balance.

Jenny Tier Bishop took up collections for the old people in St. Ann's Home when she should have been taking up collections for us. She seldom got a new dress. Often, she saved the $2 a week my father gave her and bought bolt goods and made her own dresses. At night, when our homework was done, we helped her sew rosettes on garters for a piece-goods house.

The pay was a penny apiece. She baked her own bread, made pies and tea biscuits, could make a vegetable soup last two days. She made her husband the master of the house. It was her will, not his. When he imposed a law she could not abide, she would clench her little fist and argue into the early hours. The only luxury she asked of life was a pair of diamond earrings. She got them, and had to put them in a hock shop the following summer.

I cried. She said I was a "little boy." She cradled my head in her arms and said I must grow up. The earrings would come back. She had the pawn ticket. But economics never improved. Three of us grew too fast, ate too much, produced too little. I delivered newspapers, worked for Ehrhardt the butcher, and kept the money.

Sometimes, our family be-

President Johnson feels, according to insiders, that the South Vietnamese must run their own country. The alternative would be for the United States to take over the government, thus turning South Vietnam into an American colony.

This would be unacceptable to the American people, let alone the world at large, the President believes.

Meanwhile, President Johnson hopes that the American people will not expect the new government to become a model democracy overnight. It will be no better than its leaders, who should be chosen by the Vietnamese, not the Americans.

NOTE — The President is deeply disturbed over Congressional criticism of the Vietnam elections. The critics are taking the same line as the Communists — namely, that the elections are rigged — which could undermine world confidence in the new government. To counteract this, President Johnson is thinking about asking several prominent Americans to observe the elections. He also hopes to meet with the newly-elected leaders, probably in October. He will urge them to take full charge of their own country and to seek an all-Vietnamese settlement with the North.

Complaints Urgent

(Part two of a series)
Serious efforts to advance toward racial harmony take a long time to achieve results and they are very costly. The grievances and complaints of the young Negroes are immediate and urgent. They will not wait for their grandchildren to enjoy the solutions of their problems.

The older generation of Negro leaders has learned to live on promises of better things to come. But for the present these older and more patient Negroes are not listened to by the new generation.

The core of the problem is how to create a new generation of Negro leaders whom the young Negroes will follow and with whom the white establishment in American society can live and work. For the irreconcilables like Stokely Carmichael, who consider themselves at war with the white majority, there is no future except in jail or in exile. For in any test of strength and violence they would certainly be crushed, and if they insist on putting the matter to the test, they have no prospect whatever of prevailing. The power of the white community is so overwhelmingly superior that the security of the blacks lies, in the last analysis, in the determination of the whites not to let the conflict go to extreme limits. The disparity in strength is such that it is absurd for Stokely Carmichael to think of a race war.

The question is whether and how the white community can be induced to pay the costs, financial as well as human, of the reform and reconstruction which might at last assuage the grievances of the Negroes. My own view is a tough-minded one. As long as the advance of the Negro is presented as a form of white philanthropy — the white majority making sacrifices to uplift the Negro minority — nothing on the scale needed will be practical politics. The uplifting of the Negro cannot be accomplished as a pro-Negro enterprise. Large communities of men are not that generous and unselfish.

The advance of the Negro must be part of a much greater and more general effort to uplift the whole community, carrying the Negro minority with it in the enterprise. In the current jargon we can uplift the Negro only in the process of creating the Great Society.

We can do little for the Negro if we do not absorb his grievances in the greater needs of the whole community. Unless the whites have a vital interest in their own advancement, in making the cities livable, they will respond reluctantly to the costs of helping the Negro minority.

This comes down to saying that the racial problem is manageable. I do not say soluble, in situations which come about only now and then, not often, in the life of a nation.

There must be an overwhelming desire and intention among the active people to reform and reconstruct their own social order. The hope of the Negro people is to participate in such a general movement. There is, in my view, no hope for them as members of a separate minority who are to be accorded separate and special measures of relief and uplift.

Greater Than Realized

HARRISBURG — When Governor Shafer went before the Legislature yesterday to urge lawmakers to get on with the business of settling Pennsylvania's lagging budget and tax mess, the urgency was far greater than most realized.

It is true the new fiscal year is now some two months over the dam and Pennsylvania is still operating without a budget — and without what is considered an adequate tax program.

In fact the only tax program Pennsylvania enjoys at the moment is the carry-over tax schedule of last year which continued in effect when the new fiscal year started July 1.

However this isn't quite the point.

Governor Shafer has projected a need — or at least it is a "need" in the eyes of the Shafer Administration — of additional taxes for Pennsylvania's taxpayers in excess of a quarter-billion dollars.

It is on this point that the tax picture has fogged — in fact it has been completely blacked out up to this point.

A quarter-billion dollars in additional taxes most certainly isn't an item that can be picked up in any sort of oh-by-the-way stance, as has been amply illustrated these past few months.

Nevertheless the "need" is there, in fact some $200 million in increased expenditures has already been mandated by previous legislatures. Two courses are open: either new taxes must be enacted to meet at least this $200 million mandate, or some of the mandated programs must be repealed by the Legislature.

It isn't up to Governor Shafer. Thus the "need" for the additional taxes is obvious — that is, up to the tune of around $200 million. The remainder of the new tax need — around $100 million — is wrapped up in the Shafer Administration proposals.

However the urgency that some move be made without more delay — if taxes are to be increased — has been pointed up rather forcefully by what might be termed an "outside force."

That "force" is to be found in Washington and on the local level right here in Pennsylvania.

In a nutshell it works out this way:

Social security taxes are on their way up, quite handsomely one might say, if the speedy action by the House of Representatives in Washington last week can be accepted as any indication.

On top of this President Johnson has been hammering for a tax surcharge on individual incomes — which means still another tax pocket plucking for the individual taxpayer.

Add to this the fact that local political subdivisions throughout Pennsylvania, including school districts, are raising taxes this year up and down and across the state.

The all these together and then have the state come along and ask for another quarter-billion-dollar-plus in new taxes and the show on the road begins to falter!

Lawmakers here on Capitol Hill already have felt the pressures back home in opposition to increasing taxes on the state level, which is one reason the Shafer Administration so far has been unable to raise sufficient support within its own ranks in the House and Senate to clear the tax hurdle.

This though has been going on for the past couple of months — for the most part before the increased social security and local taxes came into the focus they have now.

What this means is greater pressure to stay out of the increased tax picture on the state level, which by now is a virtual impossibility.

This in turn means greater reluctance on the part of legislators to go for any tax program as the howls and clamor on the home front increase — and points up why each day's delay makes it that much tougher.

Grid Growls

It's a little early to make predictions... or is it?

Saving the probable won-lost records until a little later, it can safely be assumed that, based on returning personnel, Warren and Sheffield should be successful football teams.

Youngsville has four proven performers back, but it's too early to tell whether By Welker will have seven more good men to help them out.

From this writer's viewpoint, however, it's a different story with Toby Shea and Joe Giordano.

Lettermen are not a guarantee of success, but the Wolverine returnees are, for the most part, excellent ballplayers. The question is, can Giordano weld them into a team? Since its Joe's first head coaching job, his ability to organize and coordinate is still somewhat of an unknown quality.

In Gene Chieffo and Pat Cronmiller, he has the staff to help him get the job done and, in our opinion, Wolverine fans can expect winning football this season.

Shea's presence on the hilltop has generated a new kind of excitement.

There's no doubt that, if nothing else, the Dragons will be in shape. Shea runs a rigorous practice, as several now-former gridders discovered early.

Shea also believes in contact; the Blue and White bumped heads on Friday and scrimmaged on Saturday. (Who remembers opening day under J. B. Leidig? Two-on-one tackling under punts.) And the boys are enthused—at least the football players, the ones who thrive on hitting.

The Shea spirit is infectious. Even the handful of fans who stand around at each practice can sense it. If we were asked to describe the Shea philosophy it would be "Think Positive."

Confidence, execution and hitting, that's Shea-style football.

He's even got this old single wing advocate believing in the T! We plan a feature of the new Dragon offense in the near future, but caution that the T formation, be it straight or winged, is not instant success by itself. (Remember, of 100 teams running the T, 50 are losers.)

The point is, however, that this bunch of boys, running the T as coached by Shea, can be winners. The boys believe it, Shea believes it and we believe it.

Warren has one more advantage. Shea has the finest staff we've seen on the hill for a number of years. Newcomers Joel Beason and Tom Scarcella are hard-working and qualified and veterans Chuck Mullen, Ange Juliano and Tony Scordo represent a lot of good, solid experience. Nineteen days to kickoff.

MC MEANS ZIPS BETTS, 2-0

Nichols Cop 2nd Half City Crown

Nichols Service Center scored single runs in the third and fourth frames to back the three-hit pitching of Jim McMeans last night, clinching the second half City Softball League Machine at Carbon Memorial Field.

The triumph earned the Servicemen a berth in a best-of-three game series against first half winner Warren Auto Clinic for the loop championship starting tomorrow evening.

McMeans, who struck out six and walked just one, bested John Berdine to cement first place for Nichols in the final regular season game of the season. He was in trouble in both the fourth and sixth innings, but pitched out of it in each frame to preserve his shut-out.

His teammates had taken a 1-0 edge in the third, then added the clincher in the fourth frame.

Pete Molinaro led off the third by reaching base on a Betts error. Brandhorst bunted him to second and he came home on a single by Jim Fehlman.

In the fourth, Bob Larson singled to start the inning and Dick White slammed a two-out double to close out the night's scoring.

McMeans had given up a two-out single to Chuck Sample of the Machinists in the first, but then retired the next seven men in order.

Singles by Dick Thompson and Sample to open the fourth had him in hot water, but two infield flys and a ground ball got him out of the inning unscathed.

Betts put a pair on again in the sixth with one away, but McMeans fanned the next batter and the final out was recorded on a grounder.

Larson was the big man at the plate for Nichols, rapping two singles and walking in three trips to the plate off Berdine, who was tagged for a total of five hits.

Rec League's Final Series Starts Tonight

The Recreation Softball League's final three-game series for the year-end tournament championship opens tonight at 6:30 at Carbon Memorial Field.

Twin Drive II, regular season winners, meets City Ice & Beverage, the second place finisher. Twin eliminated Towne & Country two games to one and the Icemen swept the Mineral Well Mets in straight contests to gain the finals.

The second game is slated for Sunday at 6:30, also at Carbon Field, with a third game, if necessary, set for next Tuesday.

ChiSox Tie for AL Lead; Cards Fall Again

CHICAGO (AP) — The charging Chicago White Sox, scoring three runs in the fourth inning on Rocky Colavito's two-run homer and a sacrifice fly by Ron Hansen, downed the New York Yankees 4-3 last night and climbed into a first place tie with idle Minnesota.

The victory was the third straight for the Sox and their sixth in the last eight games.

Rookie Steve Jones, sailing along with a one-out shutout and a four-run lead, became wild in the sixth and needed help from relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm to record his first victory against one loss.

Chicago jumped ahead in the third on a single by Wayne Causey and a run-scoring double by Walt Williams. Pete Ward walked to open the fourth and scored on Colavito's eighth homer of the season and third since coming to the Sox.

After Colavito homered, Tommie Agee walked and went to third on an attempted pickoff by pitcher Al Downing. Hansen then delivered his sacrifice fly, scoring Agee.

Jones, who reported to the Sox last week from Indianapolis, had held the Yankees in check to John Kennedy's infield single in the fifth and retired the first two batters he faced in the sixth.

Jones then walked Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone and gave up a run-scoring bloop single to Bill Robinson. Wilhelm took over, and yielded a two-run double to Charlie Smith before retiring Bob Tillman to end the inning.

The 44-year-old knuckleballer then settled down to record his 11th save of the season. Downing suffered his seventh loss against 12 triumphs although two of the four runs scored against him were unearned.

Miller, whose run-scoring double capped a three-run first inning sendoff, doubled and scored in the fourth before sending home the first run in the seventh with another two-base hit.

The Cards, who had an eight-game winning string snapped by the Astros Sunday, tied the score 3-3 in the second inning on Orlando Cepeda's double, two wild pitches by winner Wade Blasingame and a two-run homer by Ed Spiezio.

But Ron Brand's bunt single, after a double by Miller and a single by Bob Aspromonte in the fourth, sent Houston in front to stay.

The Astros added a run in the fifth on Joe Morgan's double and a single by Doug Rader, then wrapped it up in the seventh on three hits, two walks, a wild pitch, an error and an infield out.

Bengals Meet Twins For Crucial Series

By WHITEY SAWYER
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers feel they couldn't find a better spot to start a winning streak than right now.

They face the league leading Minnesota Twins in five games in three days, starting with a doubleheader today. The Tigers are in fourth place in the jammed up American League race, only two games behind the Twins.

"What this club needs," said Tiger slugger Al Kaline, "is to win six or seven games in a row. We can't seem to get a good winning streak going. We win a couple, then lose one."

"If we could win about seven games straight, we'd be on our way. Nobody could catch us."

FIRST SACKER CANNED, PITCHER FINED

Harrelson, Aker Latest To Suffer Finley Wrath

BALTIMORE (AP) — First baseman Ken Harrelson was unconditionally released and star relief pitcher Jack Aker was fined $250 by Kansas City owner Charles O. Finley yesterday in an aftermath of a shakeup that resulted in the firing of Manager Al Dark.

Harrelson had been critical of Dark's release early Sunday and said he had told Finley that his actions the past few days were "bad for baseball."

The Athletics held a clubhouse meeting last night and voted unanimously not to retract a statement which accused Finley of undermining team morale.

Aker, team player representative, summoned by Finley to Washington from Baltimore to join in the meeting that led to Dark's dismissal, was slapped with the fine for breaking curfew, Finley said he was unable to reach Aker in Baltimore for the meeting until 1:10 a.m. Sunday and the club's curfew is midnight after a day game.

The series of incidents was touched off when pitcher Lew Krausse was suspended last Friday because of an alleged incident on a recent airline flight.

The players then drafted a statement Saturday in which they said in part:

"We players feel that if Mr. Finley would give his fine coaching staff and excellent manager the authority they deserve, these problems would not exist."

After Finley read the statement, he said, "This compels me to withhold the announcement of a two-year Dark contract until further consideration."

After an all-night meeting, Finley dismissed Dark Sunday. Harrelson said he told Finley that he thought the action was bad for baseball. Then Harrelson, a 25-year-old native of Savannah, Ga., was fired.

Relief pitcher and player representative Jack Aker said yesterday the dismissal of Dark "left everybody with a hollow feeling."

Harrelson said, "I was shocked. You're always shocked when you lose your job. I'm sorry this whole thing had to come about."

"This situation is explosive, and something's going to happen. I don't know what, but something."

"I think he (Finley) made a great mistake in firing Alvin Dark. Dark was a terrific guy. A great manager — a great person."

"He had plans for us winning the pennant in 1969 or 1970. Now he won't be able to realize those plans."

"I was shocked and floored when I heard about Dark. I had tears in my eyes. I cried. A lot of the players cried."

Harrelson has a .275 average with the A's but said he had been swinging the bat real good lately with an average for the past two months of .315.

Harrelson said the whole affair began when a passenger wrote TWA. He said, "The players had permission to drink on those flights but not the other passengers."

He said TWA sent a letter about the alleged incident, which he declined to elaborate upon, to Finley.

"The whole thing was out of proportion. Nobody was out of hand. In fact, the team had gotten up a letter complimenting the fine service and the stewards."

About his future plans, he said, "I just want to get on a good ball club and play baseball. I think I could help one of the contenders."

Harrelson has played all of his baseball career with the A's with the exception of 71 games earlier this year with the Washington Senators.

He said he called his wife and told her about the dismissal and "she cried. She doesn't understand baseball..."

The 25-year-old infielder said his immediate plans called for attending a meeting of the players last night, despite his new status, then heading back for Kansas City "to make a few feelers" to other clubs.

He denied saying, as published earlier, that he had described Finley as being a "menace" to baseball.

"What I told Finley was I thought his action the past few days was bad for baseball."

"Then he called me this morning and said I was unconditionally relieved of all duties. I don't have any bad feelings. Charlie Finley has been good to me financially."

About three hours later, Harrelson said he had received offers from six major league clubs. He declined to identify them, but said one was in the first division.

After 72 hours on waivers, which cannot be recalled by Kansas City, Harrelson can refuse to report to the lowest club in the American League which claims him. He then becomes a free agent and may negotiate a contract with any major league club.

When he signs with a new team, Harrelson relinquishes his claim to 30 days dismissal pay due him by the Athletics.

In Chicago, Finley issued a statement which in part said "as owner of the Kansas City Athletics, it is incumbent upon me to demand that all members of our organization conduct themselves in a manner that will reflect high credit on the American League and baseball in general."

Akron Team Fires Rote And Walker

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — General Manager Tobin Rote and head coach Don Walker of the Akron Vulcans of the Continental Football League were fired yesterday by owner Frank Hurn.

Lou Rymkus, former assistant coach of the Vulcans, was named to the dual post of head coach and general manager.

"I did not feel I was getting a professional job out of Rote and Walker, although I was paying them pro salaries," said Hurn, a Chicago construction company owner.

It was estimated that Walker and Rote made a combined annual salary of $40,000.

Rote called the situation pathetic and said he has not been paid since starting with the Vulcans. He added that Hurn owes money to the other coaches.

An argument started after Rote told Hurn bills were piling up and had to be paid, the general manager said.

"Hurn has spent only $2,000 of his own money on this whole operation," Rote said. "I personally loaned him $10,700 and have a note to prove it."

Hurn said later that outside interests on the part of Rote and Walker necessitated a change.

Walker was not available for comment.

Rymkus, a former Cleveland Browns tackle, was named coach of the year in 1960 when he coached the Houston Oilers of the American Football League to a championship. He has been an assistant coach at Green Bay, Los Angeles and Detroit, all in the National Football League.

The Vulcans were defeated 33-20 Saturday by the Norfolk Neptunes in Norfolk, Va. Their regular season opens here Saturday night against Toronto.

Papa Bear's Rebuilding Club on Youth Movement

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) — They are burning the midnight oil in the camp of the Chicago Bears where George Halas and his staff are trying to surround Gale Sayers with a solid ball club.

A wave of retirements, trades and injuries has cut deeply into the Bears' supply of manpower. No fewer than 11 of last year's crop have departed, including Mike Ditka, who played out his option and wound up in Philadelphia. The team had 5-7-2 record last season.

Halas, still in complete charge at the age of 72, runs the camp with a heavy hand. He calls the staff into long, night sessions and cracks the whip over the athletes during the day.

"We have quite a turnover," said Halas, the patriarch whose reign dates back to the actual founding of the league. "I think the changes are all for the best, but it may not show up that way until we are well into the season. You might say we are starting a youth movement."

"We are revising our offense and our defense. Yes, we hope to spring a few surprises on the boys. But it will take some time."

As long as Sayers stays healthy, the Bears must be respected. In two seasons of pro ball, the former Kansas comet has set four NFL records, tied another and broken eight Bears' marks. Among his accomplishments in 1966 was leading the league in rushing and kickoff returns.

Without Ditka, the Bears are hurting at tight end. Halas has been looking at 6-foot-7 Charles McLeod, a minor leaguer last year, ex-Ram Duane Allen and rookie Fritz Greenlee of Arizona. Charlie Bivins has been shifted to running back. Halas may have to trade for a tight end.

Split end Jimmy Jones and flanker Johnny Morris, who missed almost all of last season due to a knee injury, are the top receivers. Dick Gordon played out his option and is not back.

There is a gap at left tackle on the offensive line, where George Seals or Randy Jackson, a taxi squad member last year, probably will get the nod. Bob Wetoska is the other tackle with Jim Cadile and Mike Rabold or Don Croftcheck at the guards and Mike Pyle at center. Rookie Bob Pickens of Nebraska has been injured.

The defensive line of last year is riddled. Doug Atkins was traded and Ed O'Bradovich said he was quitting. Loyd Phillips, a highly-regarded rookie from Arkansas, is slated to play left end.

Marty Amstler from Wheeling of the Continental League and rookie Terry Oakes of San Francisco State are in the scrap for right end. Dick Evey and Frank Cornish will man the middle. Franklin McRae, 6-6, 270, and John Johnson are back-up men.

The veteran linebackers are back with Joe Fortunato on the left, Dick Butkus in the middle and Jim Purnell on the right. Doug Buffone and Mike Reilly probably will be the spares.

Joe Taylor, up from Toronto of the Continental League, has been pressing Curt Gentry for a corner back job. Bennie McRae is set for the other corner and Rosey Taylor and Richie Pettibon are the safeties.

Not Over-Confident Warns Saints Coach

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — "Don't think we're going to have a .500 season or anything like that," cautions Tom Fears, whose New Orleans Saints have made National Football League history by winning two exhibition games.

"It's a tough league and tougher as you get closer to that opening game," said Fears.

The Saints upset the Pittsburgh Steelers 20-17 on rookie Charles Durkee's 37-yard field goal Saturday night. A week earlier, the new NFL team knocked off the St. Louis Cardinals.

No other NFL expansion team — Dallas, Minnesota or Atlanta — scored two exhibition victories in the initial season, let alone win two in a row.

"We started practice before everybody else," explains Fears. "I think we're in a little better shape than anybody else and we're a little further ahead at this time. But the rest of the teams will be overtaking us."

"I'm not being pessimistic, I'm just being a realist," added Fears, the onetime Vince Lombardi assistant chosen to guide New Orleans in its formative years in the NFL.

However, Fears said his team is "just a step away from being a lot better ball club."

Gary Cuozzo had been under fire for poor performances in the first two Saints exhibition games but the Phi Beta Kappa quarterback from Virginia by way of the Baltimore Colts got the job done against the Steelers — a team Fears predicts will win its division title.

Cuozzo came off the bench to direct the Saints on three scoring drives against the Steelers, and Fears said his position "all along has been that he can do the job."

Fears also said he thought quarterback Gary Wood, who hurt his ankle just before the half, "handled it very well. He's a clever little fellow. His passing, I thought, was excellent and that 27-yard bootleg run he made for a touchdown was beautiful."

Lions' Eddy Out with Knee Injury

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions' prize rookie, Notre Dame All-American Nick Eddy, suffered a sprained right knee in the 38-17 victory over San Diego Sunday, doctors said yesterday.

Doctors at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital said Eddy will be examined again today and that his return to practice is indefinite.

Eddy, who got an estimated $300,000 for signing with the National Football League club ran eight times against the American Football League team Sunday. He gained five yards on one play, was tackled and rolled over in agony.

"I had my leg extended straight and somebody fell on it," Eddy said.

Linebacker Wally Hilgenberg suffered torn ligaments on a knee and will undergo surgery Tuesday. The second string defensiveman probably will be out for the season, club officials said.

The veteran linebackers are back with Joe Fortunato on the left, Dick Butkus in the middle and Jim Purnell on the right. Doug Buffone and Mike Reilly probably will be the spares.

Joe Taylor, up from Toronto of the Continental League, has been pressing Curt Gentry for a corner back job. Bennie McRae is set for the other corner and Rosey Taylor and Richie Pettibon are the safeties.

Florida Halfback Needs Girdle for Twiggy Hips

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The University of Florida just had to do something for halfback Larry Smith — so it bought him a girdle.

On a 94-yard touchdown run, Smith's pants nearly fell off before an Orange Bowl crowd of 72,426 and a television audience last January.

"We got letters from as far away as Oregon," said Florida Coach Ray Graves.

Smith's new pants, instead of five elastic panels, have eight panels.

"Like a girdle," said Ed Kensler, the Florida offensive coach.

Smith, 6-foot-4 and 214 pounds, has shoulders like a weight lifter but hips like Twiggy.

Fred Pancoast, Florida's backfield coach, says Smith's pants have been falling off all his athletic life. Pancoast was his coach in precollege days.

"It became a joke in high school," Pancoast said. "His mother would climb up to the press box, give a message to an assistant coach, who would relay it to another assistant on the field. A sub would take the message in and say, 'Larry, your mother says pull your pants up.'"

Pancoast recalls that Smith once nearly lost his trunks during a game.

"Sure, he won the race — never even broke stride," Pancoast said. "I think he did look back to see if he had lost his trunks altogether."

"But not being able to kick didn't hurt him much — all his power is in his arms and shoulders anyway."

Kensler said he was surprised that Smith's pants didn't fall off before the Orange Bowl game.

"All the football teams in the South wear pants made of a material that sheds sweat — makes the water run off," Kensler said. "It makes the pants slick — and they slip. But I think the girdle will hold them up."

CITE CLAY DETHRONEMENT

Latins Protest U.S. Domination of WBA

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
RENO, Nev. (AP) — Latin American delegates threatened to walk out of the 1967 World Boxing Association convention as it opened here yesterday if they weren't treated "democratically."

Secretary Rodrigo Sanchez of the Panamanian Boxing Commission made the threat in an interview as resentment grew over American control of the WBA.

The Latins cited as an example the dethroning of heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who figured prominently in the convention's opening remarks.

In his welcoming address, Gov. Paul Laxalt of Nevada said his action banning a Clay match with former champion Floyd Patterson four months ago in Las Vegas got overwhelming support.

"I'm sure I've never seen any more reaction to anything in my life," Laxalt said. "We got hundreds of letters from throughout the country, many from you, and they approved 100 per cent."

"Give us some guidelines so in the future we can regulate boxing carefully," Laxalt said, "and if you need any help from state government, just push the button."

snapping his fingers to emphasize. "They didn't ask anybody."

Cordova will oppose Evans for re-election. Sanchez said Cordova had complete support from the Latin American delegation, pledged support from the Oriental delegation and would pick up votes from American states, "at least those who think the WBA should not belong to the U.S. commissioners."

"I am a member of the WBA executive committee," he said, "and nobody asked me what I thought about Clay."

"Then a few days later the executive committee was meeting in Louisville and they took the same position as before," he said. Sanchez said he abstained from voting during the Louisville meeting.

"Clay was champion of the world, not just the United States," Sanchez said.

"He is still fighting in the court and what happens if tomorrow a judge says Cassius Clay had the right to do what he did?"

"If we lose the elections in a democratic way, we'll stay in," Sanchez said.

But if Latin Americans are treated badly they will walk out, he said.

In other action: Dr. Leon Feldman, the WBA's international medical advisor, suggested considering suspension of George Chuvalo and Floyd Patterson as medical risks.

—WBA International Commissioner Abe Greepe of Paterson, N.J., called upon delegates to forego personal and selfish causes.

"Is there any reason why a boxing commissioner has to walk down the street with head low because of something somebody did somewhere?" he asked.

"Until the day cash registers ring in the boxing clubs," Greepe said, men will try to enter the business with "he-farious ends."

WBA President Robert Evans said dethroning Clay was "the most outstanding thing we've done" this past year. The group took the action because Clay refused the military draft.

"He's never been a bad boy, never been in trouble to my knowledge," said Evans of his fellow Louisville, Ky., townsman. "But he's been misguided. He's a mixed up kid."

The Latin delegation said withdrawal of Clay's recognition as champion was railroaded through the WBA's executive committee.

"The same day Clay said 'No' in Houston, right then they revoked his title," said Dr. Alias Cordova, a general surgeon,

Kansas City Buttinski

(c) New York Times News Service
NEW YORK — When Charles O. Finley bought the Kansas City Athletics seven years ago, he kept emphasizing that his middle initial stood for "Owner." No one has been able to forget it since. Finley, the maverick, seemed to think that mere ownership automatically endowed him with a baseball knowledge such as could not be found in the combined brains of John McGraw, Connie Mack, Joe McCarthy and Casey Stengel. He has acted as if he knew more overnight than these geniuses learned through the practical experiences of a lifetime.

From the very start, the millionaire insurance man interfered with the running of his ball club by the competitors who knew what it all was about. At 5:30 Sunday he dismissed Alvin Dark, a man regarded by those in the trade as being one of the top practitioners of the managerial art. Charlie O. replaced him with Luke Appling, the seventh Kansas City skipper in the seven years of the Finley reign.

But an even more egregious illustration of the Finley instability was still to come. The Athletics players were outraged by the sacking of Dark, a man they admired and respected. Some of them popped off. One was Ken Harrelson, the first baseman, who was quoted as calling Finley "a menace to baseball." Yesterday afternoon the petulant Owner cut Harrelson, the team's leading hitter, from his roster, giving him his unconditional release. There hasn't been anything like this since the Queen of Hearts screamed, "Off with her head!" Furthermore, it has all the unreality of an Alice in Wonderland dream sequence.

Finley has destroyed the morale of his ball club by his tactics. He was guilty of an unforgivable offense by making a grandstand play when he suspended Lew Krausse publicly before ruling that no alcoholic beverages could be served on the A's plane. If the step was necessary, it could have and should have been done quietly. Finley, not the most self-effacing of men, went for the headlines.

However, his behavior this year could have driven anyone to drink — except Dark who never touches the stuff. The Athletics were doing well into June this season as Alvin carefully brought along his youthful heroes. But then came orders from on high — and Finley is the highest — that better prospects be rushed up from the minors. Dark insisted that they weren't ready and that longer apprenticeship was the hope for the future. Finley overruled him.

So Kansas City used the shuttle system. Kids came up for brief stints, were exposed as being over their heads in the majors and returned to the minors. The team was in a constant turmoil and showed it, sliding from a tie for fifth place to the cellar.

His authority undermined by the Owner, Dark sensed six weeks ago that he was on his way out. The meeting that preceded Dark's ousting lasted 10 hours and Finley claimed he was about to give Alvin a new two-year contract. That's hogwash — or so most baseball people believe.

It didn't take Finley long to don the mantle of genius. When Manny Jimenez was an early season sensation as a batsman, hitting .350 or so, Charlie O. told him to stop hitting singles and hit homers. The confused Manny did neither and eventually landed back in the minors.

This year Finley ordered Mike Hershberger to stop trying for homers and go for lesser blows. Mike disobeyed only once. But it was an inside-the-park home run and therefore it was easy to forgive him for his rashness.

Another of the Finley ideas — they're worth a dime a dozen — kept on the roster a guy named Allan Lewis. His sole claim to fame was that he was fast. He couldn't hit and he couldn't field. What use is a fellow like that? According to the Finley brainstrom he would be invaluable as a pinch-runner. How often does a manager need a pinch-runner? Don't bother answering.

But Dark had to make room on an overcrowded squad for this reincarnation of Mercury. The first time Lewis was used as a pinch-runner, total embarrassment resulted. The guy was picked off first base.

Ever since he took control of the Athletics, Finley has been viewed with suspicion by his fellow clubowners. He has come up with so many hare-brained schemes — including the uniforming of his A's like a girls' softball team — that they are wary of him. He has given Kansas City fits, too, because of his restlessness, much too ready — or so the town fears — to switch his franchise elsewhere.

The firing of Dark and the ensuing firing of Harrelson will not endear him to his fellow magnates but could so alienate them that they will lock him into his present location until he surrenders and sells out. His interference has ruined an organization of high promise and left his new manager, Appling, with unhappy and disgruntled ball players. Finley had better abandon his O-for Owner posture. It doesn't work.

Soviet Arms Aid to Nigeria Criticized

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The United States criticized the Soviet Union yesterday for supplying arms to the Nigerian federal government.
In a statement expressing "regret" over the recent Soviet action, State Department spokesman Carl Borchers warned that the introduction of Soviet equipment involved not only the risk of deepening the current civil war but also of introducing an element of "great power competition."
Borchers stressed that neither the U.S. nor the Soviet Union had in the past been an "important" supplier of arms to Nigeria.
"Consistent with that fact," he said "The U.S. decided for its part on the outbreak of hosilities in Nigeria that it would not sell or otherwise provide arms and ammunition to either side."

The U.S., he went on, has "adhered fully" to that policy. Its decision has been stated publicly and is "well known" to the Soviet Union, he declared.
Sporadic fighting has been taking place since July 7 between forces of the Federal Government headed by Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon and those of the Eastern Region, which declared its independence May 30 and proclaimed itself as the Republic of Biafra.
The breakaway Eastern regime, which reflects the aspirations of the 6 million Ibos tribesmen who dominate the area, is headed by Lt. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

THREATENS TO JUMP

A New York emergency service policeman climbs a fire escape to the rain slicked roof of a seven story building Sunday in an attempt to reach Mrs. Joanne Monnon, who is threatening to jump. Police eventually seized the distraught woman just as she began to slip. Her mother told police that Mrs. Monnon was separated from her husband.

Britain Rejects Chinese Ultimatum

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
HONG KONG — Communist China hinted yesterday that it might break diplomatic relations with Britain unless the British accepted a Chinese ultimatum, but Britain rejected it anyway.
The Chinese ultimatum had demanded that British authorities in the crown colony of Hong Kong lift a recent ban on the printing of three pro-Communist newspapers here and release a number of leftist journalists arrested on charges ranging from sedition to participating in anticolonial riots.
The Chinese note was handed to the British charge d'affaires in Peking, Donald C. Hopson, at 10:30 Sunday night. It said the British must comply within 48 hours or bear "all the consequences arising therefrom."
Hopson rejected the note on the spot, on the ground that it was couched in "grossly offensive language."
The ultimatum will run out today, at 10:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. New York time). Hong Kong authorities and most observers here doubted the Chinese were thinking of "liberating" Hong Kong by armed invasion.
Instead, an article yesterday in Jenmin Jih Pao, Peking's Communist party paper, seemed to indicate that China was threatening to end diplomatic relations if its demands were not met.
But it was not possible to be certain just what the Chinese might do by tonight — or whether they would do anything.

Hero Gets Medal, Lauds his 'Indians'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first thing Gunner Sgt. Jimmie Howard did after President Johnson finished awarding him the Medal of Honor yesterday at the White House was light up a cigar, "my trademark."

"Every time we went out on a patrol I had to have a cigar in my mouth and one when we got back," he explained.

The 38-year-old Marine won the nation's highest military award for saving the lives of 12 of the 18 other members of his platoon in a bloody battle near Chu Lai in Vietnam in June last year. The other five were killed and all the survivors wounded.

Ten of the survivors—"my Indians," Howard called them—watched Johnson drape the blue ribbon holding the medal around the sergeant's neck.

Then Howard, with tears swelling in his eyes, went before a battery of microphones, pointed to the surviving members of his platoon and said they deserve the medal as much as he. Johnson then shook hands with the survivors.

After the ceremony, in the White House lobby, Howard lit his cigar and repeatedly praised his "Indians," or "my gang," beamingly described them: "one hell of a bunch. They did one hell of a job—a good crew. Pardon my language."

His platoon was occupying an observation post deep within enemy territory when the Viet Cong attacked on June 16, 1966.

Howard said the Viet Cong were yelling at them in perfect English that they would be dead in an hour. Grinning, he remarked that the answers the VC got back were not in ballroom language.

The citation said Howard skillfully organized his small but determined force into a tight perimeter defense and moved calmly from position to position to direct his men's fire.

Wounded by a grenade which prevented him from moving his legs, Howard distributed ammunition to remaining members of the platoon and maintained radio contact to direct airstrikes on the enemy with uncanny accuracy.

Howard warned evacuation helicopters away and called for additional air strikes.

Howard, the sixth Marine to win the Medal of Honor in Vietnam, is a native of Burlington, Iowa, but now lives in San Diego, Calif. He won the Silver Star in Korea.

25 Juveniles Nabbed at Party

EMPORIUM -- State police of the Emporium substation Sunday reported the apprehension of about 25 juveniles of Emporium, surrounding areas and from out of state, at a summer home "beer party."

Police answered a complaint in the Sterling Run area about 10:30 p.m. Saturday at a camp owned by George Brunner of Emporium. Troopers found 15 to 20 cars at the camp and confiscated one full barrel of beer, three empty barrels and a number of quart containers.

Police have picked up a large number of boys and girls said to have attended the party and expect to apprehend many others.

Two New York State juveniles have already appeared before a Lumber township peace justice and posted bond for a hearing at a later date.

Civil Engineer From Utah Joins Allegheny Forest Staff

Elihu Jones, civil engineer, arrived Monday to join the engineering department of Allegheny National Forest. He has been at Ogden, Utah, on the staff of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation of the Department of the Interior. There he was working on construction of dams at the confluence of the Causey and Ogden Rivers.

Originally from Wolcott, N. Y., Jones was graduated in civil engineering from Washington State College, Pullman, Washington. He returned east, and for 25 years operated a farm at Wolcott. In 1956 Jones entered government service at Rock Springs, Wyoming. His work has been chiefly on construction of dams and irrigation canals.

On the Allegheny National Forest Jones will be assigned to the northern zone of the forest. He is primarily working with road construction and trails, including the Allegheny Reservoir area.

Jones will be joined by his family in a few days, and will live in Warren. Of their seven children, two are still at home. Gay will be a freshman and Stephen a senior in Warren Area High School.

His wife, Helga, is a native of Denmark. A son Byrd earned a national merit scholarship, was graduated from Williams College in Massachusetts, earned his PhD in History at Yale University. Byrd is presently teaching at University of California at

Name Conferees to Pick Assembly Candidate Aug. 28

Gurney R. Ball, chairman of the Warren County Republican Committee, reminds both committeemen and women as well as those seeking the GOP nomination for the General Assembly that conferees will be elected Monday, August 28.

The session will convene at Northwest Savings & Loan's hospitality room at 7:30 p.m. Five conferees will be chosen from Warren County. Forest County is entitled to one.

Candidates for the assemblyman post will be asked to present brief talks as to qualifications for the post, this portion of the meeting to begin at 8:15 p.m., after the conferees have been elected.

Conferees will meet Thursday, August 31 to elect the Republican nominee to run on the fall general election ballot.

The victor will complete the unexpired term of the late William C. Fuelhart.

Judge Flick to Attend Juvenile Court Meeting

Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. will attend the 15th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Juvenile Court Judges Wednesday through Saturday.

He will also attend a meeting of the Commission of Juvenile Court Judges, of which he is a member. The seven-judge commission was appointed by the Governor on recommendation of the Chief Justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, to form standards for juvenile courts and probation services.

Sessions are being held at Dickinson Law School at Carlisle, Pennsylvania. The seminar is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Council of Juvenile Court Judges Commission.

Discussions are concerned with developments of juvenile courts and juvenile probation services.

Among those who will participate are:

Richard C. Farrow, acting commissioner, Office for Children and Youth, Pa. Dept. of Public Welfare; John F. Irving, executive director National Council of Juvenile Court Judges; Willis O. Thomas, director eastern regional office National Council on Crime and Delinquency; J. Shane Cramer, executive director Pennsylvania Crime Commission; Dr. Arthur C. Eckerman, director Bureau of Personnel, Governor's Office of Administration; the Hon. Dale F. Shughart, chairman Juvenile Court Judges Commission.

Warren County has become favorably known throughout Pennsylvania and in other states because of its probation association program, supported by the community, which was initiated by the Hon. Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr.

Special Dates For Voter Registration

The Warren County Commissioners yesterday approved special voter registration days requested by the local League of Women Voters.

Dates were set for Friday, Sept. 15 and Saturday, Sept. 16 in the window at Montgomery Ward Co. here. Friday's hours are 10 a.m. until 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The county will also permit use of a voting machine for demonstration.

Only other official business yesterday was approval for the U.S. Forest Service to purchase a 71 acre tract of land in Elk township, the owner listed as Josephine F. Haire. Since the property will be removed from county tax rolls, the commissioners must approve the transaction.

Both measures were given accord by D. H. Lay and Lewis L. Crippen, Blain M. Mead being absent.

Rotarians Hear About Local Radio

James Potter, sales manager Allegheny Broadcasting Corporation radio stations WNAE-WRRN-FM, was speaker at Warren Rotary Club Monday noon, outlining the history of radio and of the local station. He was introduced by Rotarian LeRoy Schneck, program director for WNAE-WRRN-FM.

Potter observes that 5,400 radio stations in the United States are chiefly small business enterprises. Their ownership includes more than 60,000 Americans.

He explained the group which established WNAE 21 years ago in 1946 chose Warren originally because it was one of the few towns of between 15 and 20 thousand population without radio.

It was originally formed by David and James Potter, of Detroit, Homer Haynes, joined by LeRoy Schneck and Frank Foster.

James Potter says everyone is happy to have come to Warren, because of its being an exceptional community, and a fine place in which to raise a family.

In spite of the advent of television, radio has grown without interruption over the years. More than 250 million radios are in use today, with more than 60 million in automobiles. Studies show that 25 per cent are in living rooms, 21 per cent in bedrooms, 16 per cent in kitchens, 4 per cent in dining rooms, 5 per cent in dens, studies, libraries and other locations, with 26 per cent in automobiles.

Potter paid tribute to Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr., and the late Warren M. Stone who were the attorneys who assisted in forming WNAE, and who were also original investors in the enterprise.

Guests at Rotary included Reuben Mazer of Jamestown, George Ferman, of the building and furnishing services of the National Council of the YMCA, and Ralph R. Strauser of Milwaukee.

Worthless Check

A 28-year-old Warren woman was apprehended by borough police Saturday on a worthless check charge.

Released after making restitution and paying costs of prosecution was Joyce Burch, of 751 Jackson Run rd.

Police said that a complaint was received August 4 from Edward Ryberg of Pennsylvania Bank & Trust Co. that on July 10 the institution had received a $50 worthless check passed by the local woman.

$635 in Damage

Total property damage was listed at $635 in a two-vehicle accident which occurred at 7:13 a.m. yesterday on Pennsylvania ave. near Pine st.

Borough police said a semi-rig driven by Phillip G. Stout, of 231 Pitt st., Pittsburgh, traveling east on the avenue, swerved left to go around a car in front making a left turn, crossed the double yellow line and struck a westbound car driven by Terry W. Anderson, 114 Jackson ave., Warren.

Glen Cosby New Chairman Of IMA Group

Glen A. Cosby, branch manager of Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. has accepted chairmanship of the Warren Industrial Management Association, which is affiliated with the YMCA.

The announcement was made by the association president Richard Moll, personnel manager of Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron Co.

Cosby is a registered civil engineer and has a BSCE degree. He joined PDM in the summer of 1958 as engineer trainee. After completing work assignments in all working departments he was permanently assigned to the production department in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh assignments included a variety of specialty installations, particularly this country's first Ultra-Hi Vacuum Man Rated-Space Chamber, designed to test flight suits for the Apollo program. He was also assistant to project director on JNEM.

Cosby was transferred to Warren as branch manager in February of 1966. He and his wife, Joyce, reside at 127 Callender st., with their three children, David, 9; Douglas, 8 and Diane, 2.

The new chairman will soon announce other members of his committee.

IMA starts its 33rd year on Monday, October 9 with a dinner at the newly renovated YMCA facilities. A plant tour through Thomas Flexible Division, Rex Chain Belt Co., will follow.

Georgia Foresters Visit Here

A group from the regional office of U.S. Forest Service Region 8, in Atlanta, Georgia, is visiting Allegheny National Forest this week.

Walter Fox, chief of plans of water management in the division of recreation and watershed for Southern Region 8, heads the officials. With him are Robert F. Collins, Supervisor Daniel Boone National Forest, Winchester, Kentucky; James Wenner, recreation planning branch of Southern Region; and Everett Toll, from Daniel Boone National Forest.

The men are here to look over recreation planning, development and management of the Allegheny Reservoir area. Allegheny National Forest Deputy Supervisor Don Gilton explains the Corps of Army Engineers have several impoundment dams under construction and in the planning stage on the Daniel Boone National Forest. Their studies of the Allegheny Reservoir recreation and development program will provide a preview of their own future developments.

A SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY will be observed by the Murray Petersons of 103 Conewango avenue, Russell, this coming Sunday, August 27. The occasion will be celebrated with an open house hosted by their daughter, Kathleen Peterson, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Peterson Jr. The hours are from 2 to 4 o'clock, and from 7 to 9 o'clock, at the Russell Fire Hall.

ANOTHER COURSE OFFERED WOMEN — or for that matter, knowledge of it wouldn't hurt men — by The Pennsylvania State University concerns mending techniques. Machine mending is described in detail, and, also how to turn frayed trouser cuffs; the best ways to deal with worn knees and elbows, and how to skillfully repair moth or burn holes. The idea being that the well-groomed appearance doesn't just happen — it is the result of time and effort, skilled repair and pressing jobs, all of which assist in the gaining of self-confidence. The course also gives directions for pressing wrinkle-free suit collars and shoulders, how to press sleeves to avoid creases, and many, many other instructions illustrated with charts and diagrams. For this "Care of Clothing" course just put $1.75 in an envelope and address it to Mending, 202 Agricultural Education Building, University Park, Penna. 16802. The check or money order should be made payable to The Pennsylvania State University.

THE FESTIVAL, sponsored by St. Clara's-St. Anthony's Parish, on September 1st, 2nd, and 3rd — Friday, Saturday and Sunday — at St. Paul's Center, Saybrook, will feature dinner each night. A special "family plan" is being worked out to offer special family prices for dining out. There will be more on this later. In the meantime, Friday, Sept. 1st, a Fish Dinner will be served; Saturday it will be Spaghetti, and on Sunday afternoon, starting at 12 noon, it will be Chicken Barbecue time.

THE APPROACHING MARRIAGE of their daughter, Marjean, to John A. Hagberg, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Kibbey of Pittsfield. The groom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold V. All friends and relatives are invited to attend the open church wedding and reception which will follow immediately at the Pittsfield Community Center. No formal invitations have been issued.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago my husband asked me what I wanted for my birthday. I replied, "I want you to quit smoking." He raised an eyebrow and said nothing. The night before my birthday at 10 minutes before midnight he lit a cigarette and said, "This is my last one, honey, Happy Birthday." I replied, "I don't believe it!" (He had nine packs left in a new carton.) Furthermore, he had smoked (and inhaled) between two and three packs a day for about 15 years. But he had the last laugh after all, because he really did quit.

Now that a year has passed I want to share my happiness with your readers. My husband gave me a birthday present that money couldn't buy. He gave me a gift that required enormous willpower and determination. He may also have given me several additional years of his life.

This may sound corny, but my grandmother used to say, "I'll try" can do anything. "I can't" can't do a darned thing. Will you print my letter, please? Perhaps it will serve as encouragement to others. — FRANK'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: What a splendid idea for birthdays, anniversaries, or Christmas — the gift that keeps giving. And the person who gives it also enriches himself. Thanks for your letter — a fine gift to my readers. + + +

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the rotten advice you gave a 10-year-old boy whose cat, Jezebel, jumped on the table and ate the salmon loaf intended for his mother's bridge luncheon.

My kids have a dog, two cats, a turtle, three goldfish, a canary and five hamsters. (I haven't looked since this morning, there may be more.) Your answer made it sound as if the mother was at fault for putting the salmon loaf on the table. That's where a salmon loaf belongs. The cat did NOT belong on the table.

You should have told the boy that children who have pets should watch them. It's the least a child can do if his mother allows him to have a pet in the house. — MAD AT YOU.

DEAR MAD AT ME: I agree that a child should be responsible for his pet, but that was not the question. The boy asked if the cat knew he was doing wrong. I replied, "Cats don't know right from wrong. They only know they like salmon."

You have a point, Mother, but if I had a cat I wouldn't put a salmon loaf on the table until I had checked on her whereabouts. + + +

The Robert Martins Observe Silver Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT MARTIN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin of RD 2, Tidoute, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with a reception at the Wilder Field Clubhouse. The many guests present for the occasion came from Jamestown, Clarendon, Titusville, Spring Creek as well as Tidoute.

The Martins exchanged nuptial vows in 1942 in St. John's Catholic Church, Tidoute. The late Rev. Father Edward Jacobs officiated. They are the parents of four children, Mrs. Carole Voison of Tidoute, James Martin of Tidoute, Dennis and Tom Martin, both at home. Mr. Martin is employed at the Irvine National Force Company.

Special guests at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Martin who were the couple's wedding attendants twenty-five years ago.

Aides at the reception included Mrs. Nancy Stack who served refreshments, Ann Lamer and Suzie Spencer who made the anniversary cake, with Mary Martin also serving.

For Tearing Down?

NEW YORK (AP)—The ownership of two Broadway theaters has been switched in an intricate real estate swap.

Rockett - Time Inc. purchased both the Playhouse and the Alvin from separate title holders, and then turned ownership of the Alvin over to the corporation which formerly possessed the Playhouse. Details of the multi-million dollar transactions were not disclosed, but the theatrical trade believes the switch was arranged as part of Rockett-Time negotiations to erect a skyscraper complex on property including the Playhouse site.

Miss Karin Edith Werlin Pledges Nuptial Vows In Washington, D. C.

The Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, Washington, D. C., was the scene of the nuptial service which united in marriage Karin Edith Werlin and Dr. Robert Neal Hunt recently. The Rev. K. Edwin Graham officiated at the afternoon ceremony in the presence of forty guests.

The altar was ornamented with two vases of white gladioli with white Stock. A program of pre-service music was offered on the organ by John Knapp, who also played the traditional processional Bridal Chorus by Wagner, and the recessional Wedding March by Mendelssohn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Werlin of 405 Hazel street. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace O. Hunt of 142 Hansberry street, Philadelphia, Pa. Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride approached the altar in an afternoon length gown of white Rosepoint lace, styled in a cage effect over white taffeta, with a narrow satin band defining the round neckline. The elbow length, bell shaped sleeves, and the hemline of the dress, had deep scalloped border appliques of the same lace. Her mantilla was of English net with a border of Rosepoint lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor and her sister's only attendant was Miss Christine Lynne Werlin of Warren who wore a street length gown of mint green in an ottoman weave rayon with white fishnet contrasts and white wristlet gloves. Her headdress of mint green petals secured a matching butterfly veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

The best man was the father of the groom, and ushers were Dr. Mark Levine, Dr. John Jennings, both of Philadelphia, Pa.

The mother of the bride wore a jacket dress of raspberry ribbon knit with matching hat and navy accessories with a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. The mother of the groom was in a beige silk dress with matching accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

A buffet luncheon was served at Bonat's, Washington, D.C., after the wedding service, and was attended by the forty wedding guests. The buffet table was centered with candelabra, red and white carnations and Baker fern. Ornamenting a separate tea table was the two tier wedding cake topped with roses of white frosting. A toast to the bride and groom was offered by Allen McIntosh of Arlington, Va., a cousin of the bride.

The new Mrs. Hunt is a 1964 graduate of Warren Area High School and in June of this year graduated from Capitol City School of Nursing, District of Columbia General Hospital. She is presently on the nursing staff of the Department of Public Health, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Hunt is an alumnus of Pennsylvania State University and was graduated from Temple University School of Medicine in 1966. He completed his internship on July 1 of this year at District of Columbia General Hospital. A Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Reserve, he will report on August 27 to Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, Texas. Upon receiving his commission as Captain, on September 15, the couple will reside at Pease Air Force Base in Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the groom at Gustis in Washington, D. C.

Out of town guests were present from Fort Bragg, North Carolina; Key Biscayne, Fla.; Philadelphia, York, Elizabethtown, Warren, Penna.; Baltimore, Md.

It's a good idea to use an empty jar with a screw top for mixing salad dressing. Pour in the oil and vinegar (some people prefer a 2 to 1 proportion rather than the classic 3 to 1), add seasoning and shake.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER B. CREAL

Lana Kay Shield Is Bride Of Christopher Bailey Creal

Lana Kay Shield and Christopher Bailey Creal exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, August 19, at 2:30 p.m. in the Grace Methodist Church. The Rev. Harold L. Knappenberger presided at the ceremony at which two hundred and seventy-five guests were present.

J. Richard Pratt was at the organ, and altar decorations included two vases of white gladioli and ice blue carnations, cymbidium fern and candelabra; white bows with blue daisies marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shield of 907 Conewago avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knapp Creal II of 304 Quaker Hill road.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de sole floor length A-line gown with bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace with seed pearls, and crystal and styled with a jewel neckline, bell sleeves and a chapel length Watteau train secured by tiny bows. Her bouffant veil of English silk illusion was caught to an open pillbox of peau de sole and matching lace with pearls. Her cascade bouquet was of white bridal roses and beaded Stephanotis accented with trailing ivy.

Miss Antoinette Pace, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Thomas Knapp Creal III, sister-in-law of the groom, Greenwich, Conn., Miss Cynthia Creal, sister of the groom, Warren; Miss Twyla Holmstrom of Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Sandra Lundgren of Warren, and Miss Memory Mays of Cleveland, Ohio, all wore long gowns of blue crepe with bodices of deeper blue Venetian lace, and headresses of matching blue crepe Chanel bows secured ing circular veils. They carried cascade bouquets of lavender and purple asters accented with ice blue Marguerite daisies.

The flower girl was Mistress Marrae Stretch, a cousin of the bride, who was costumed in a floor length Empire frock of ice blue crepe and a Chanel bow headress. She carried the same kind of flowers.

Best man was Thomas Knapp Creal III, brother of the groom, and ushers were Dennis Edward Shield, brother of the bride of New Haven, Conn., who officiated as the head usher; Mark W. Creal, brother of the groom of Warren, Alaric R. Bailey Jr., a cousin of the groom of Pittsburgh, Robert R. Yerg and Donald J. DeLuca, both of Warren.

The mother of the bride chose an afternoon length gown in ivory silk-linen with gold-highlighted brocade and a lavender orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a gray-blue silk afternoon length sheath trimmed in matching lace and a white orchid corsage.

The reception was held in the Woman's Club of Warren after the wedding service. Two hundred and twenty-five guests attended. Decorations at the bride's table included two gold candelabra flanking arrangements of lavender and purple asters and ice blue daisies, garlands of greens and matching flowers. At a separate table, the four tier wedding cake was topped with white roses with touches of blue, and encircled at its base with blue and white daisies.

Aides were Mrs. Levi Carlson, aunt of the bride, Miss Suzanne Shield, a cousin of the bride, Miss Nancy Clapp and Miss Sue Ann Lowe. Background organ music was played

Stiles-Holcomb Wedding Solemnized In St. John's

Della Stiles, daughter of Mrs. Aweda Stiles, of Nicktown, Penna., recently became the bride of James Holcomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Holcomb of 737 Pleasant dr., Warren.

The 1 p. m. double ring rites were performed by the Rev. James McCormick in St. John's Lutheran Church in the presence of the families. Wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Richard Kiser.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Gerald Bennett of Youngsville, the bride approached the altar, which was decorated with mums and pompons, wearing a ballerina length dress of Rochelle lace with a sabrina neckline adorned with sequins, and long fitted sleeves. She carried white and pink roses with ivy for her bouquet.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mike Dexter, wore a ballerina length gown of nylon over pink taffeta with a matching veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Best man for the ceremony was Mike Dexter and Gary Johnson was the usher.

The bride's mother chose a dress of black and white dotted nylon over silk, and white accessories. The groom's mother chose a blue silk suit with white accessories. Each had a corsage of baby white roses. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Laura Bennett, was also presented with a corsage.

The bride and groom will honeymoon in Harrisburg, Fort Belvoir, the bride chose a white linen dress with long lace sleeves and bodice. Upon their return they will reside at 28 Mohawk ave.

Mrs. Holcomb graduated from Ebsburg High School and is employed at the New Process Company and Mr. Holcomb is a graduate of Warren High School, he is employed at Thomas Coupling and is also a member of the National Guard.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Sherry Dexter and members of the groom's family from Grand Valley. Rehearsal dinner was given at the home of the groom by his parents. Bridesmaid luncheon was held at the Red Coach Inn.

NEW FREEDOM SHARES

What are they? Who may buy them?

Americans have put their savings to work for freedom through U. S. Savings Bonds for many years. Now Freedom Shares do the same job plus Read how.

Freedom Shares are U. S. Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds 4 7/8% when held to maturity. And they mature in just four and a half years.

For regular Bond buyers only

These new Freedom Shares—which are not redeemable for the first year—are offered on a one for one basis with E Bonds but only to people who belong to the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond a Month Plan where they bank.

There are four denominations of Freedom Shares each of which may be paired with a Series E Bond of the same or larger denomination as a package.

A PASTORS SCHOOL FOR MINISTERS THIS SEPT.

UNIONTOWN, Pa. — A "Pastor's School" for ministers of the Methodist Western Pennsylvania Conference will be held at the Methodist Junonville Training Center on Cool Spring Road, September 5-8.

Three recognized authorities in their respective fields will provide leadership during the four-day meeting.

Dr. Cecil Northcott, editor at large for the Christian Century, will lead a class on "World Church" with an emphasis on the ecumenical movement.

Dr. Astor Kirk, a negro Methodist minister from Texas who is currently serving in the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, will conduct the class on "Social Concerns."

Dr. Norman Terrin, associate professor of New Testament at the University of Chicago Divinity School, will teach a class based on his new book, "Rediscovering the Teachings of Jesus."

The Rev. George S. Crooks, minister of Mifflin Avenue Methodist Church, Wilkesburg, will be dean of the school. The Rev. Thomas R. Thomas, minister of the Brookline Methodist Church, Pittsburgh, will be the registrar.

Whether you want Freedom Shares or a U. S. Bond, and just sign the authorization card.

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is provided as a public service in cooperation with the Treasury Department and The Advertising Council.

Hints From Heloise

Nylon Hairpieces

DEAR HELOISE

A good way to comb real or nylon hair pieces and wigs is with a wire dog brush! Then use a dog comb!

This helps to eliminate shedding hair and it really combs out the tangles beautifully.

Beverly Baker

Well, I'm amazed. It really works!

Here's something else I learned after trying this hint.

I found it was far easier to comb the wig if I did it in my bathroom after a hot shower when there was some steam in the air. The steam also keeps the hair from flying around. It is especially good to wait until the bathroom gets REAL steamy and then go in and set your wig.

Also, it's much handier if you get out your "plumber's friend," put it on the floor and stick the wig block on it. The hole in the bottom of the block exactly fits on the wooden handle of the "plumber's friend."

If you put both feet on the rubber part of our "friend," then resetting your wig is as easy as falling off a log 'cause you can use both hands and easily turn the wig around as needed.

DEAR HELOISE

When sewing on snap fasteners sew on the pointed half first. Then rub chalk or colored pencil on the point. Press the point on the spot where the other half of the snap is to be sewn.

The tiny chalk mark will show you where to sew the other side of the snap.

This method helps get the point of the snap and the socket exactly opposite.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE

I had been using the seat belt in our car as a weight-watcher. Then one day I noticed the belt was extremely tight and naturally assumed I had been putting on pounds! I starved myself for a week before realizing my husband had moved the car seat forward!

Weight-Watcher

DEAR HELOISE

How does it come about that all female clothing buttons to the left and male to the right?

Marvin

I haven't any idea, sir. Does anyone know the history or reasoning for this standard? If so, please write to us in care of this newspaper. It will be interesting to learn the background.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

Here is a hint for jam-makers who hate to waste time skimming off foam.

I found that a tablespoon of margarine will reduce this foam almost entirely if added after the sugar has come to a boil.

Seems to improve the flavor too.

another money-making application of gas: LIGHT A GOLF COURSE

At Fair's Golf Course in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, no one has to pass up a game of golf just because it's night. It's a challenging par 3 course, well-lighted at night by on site power, generated with natural gas . . . at a fraction of the cost of purchased electric power.

For all the big jobs heating, cooling, power generation—versatile natural gas is a natural. For more information on the economies and applications of natural gas, call your Gas Company industrial representative.

The Fair's Golf Course, where one 130 horsepower Caterpillar engine generator set rated at 75 kw and powered by natural gas creates the electricity for nighttime golf at dramatic savings over purchased electric power.

Opening lead Seven of ♠
A choice of opening leads by West led to a colossal swing when today's hand was dealt in an international team-of-four contest. At one table North and South were defeated one trick in a three no trump contract while at the other table a slam was scored up.

At one table the bidding proceeded as indicated in the diagram. West was apparently in an experimental frame of mind when he chose to overcall South's opening club bid with one spade. As much as he has only four high cards, North did not have sufficient strength to rebid two diamonds which would have been unconditionally forcing on his partner. He therefore made a competitive raise to two clubs which gives the opening bidder an opportunity to quit if he has a bare minimum.

South elected to jump to three no trump since he had the spade situation well in hand. Holding 20 high card points he did not wish to leave matters to chance even though he lacked a true stopper in diamonds.

West trusted his opponent's rebid to indicate that the latter held both missing spade honors. He decided therefore to launch a surprise attack by leading the seven of hearts. The queen was played from dummy, covered by East's king and declarer's ace.

A diamond was led to the king and East was in with the ace. He continued hearts and South held up for one round winning the third lead with the jack. He cashed the queen of diamonds however when West showed out there was no way for declarer to come to more than eight tricks. He could not run the diamonds without driving out East's jack and when the latter got in — he cashed two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

At the other table North opened the bidding as the dealer with three diamonds. South proceeded directly to six no trump in the expectation that his queen of diamonds would solidify partner's suit and that the slam hinged at worst on a finesse.

West was under pressure to choose a lead that would not prove to declarer's advantage. After much soul-searching he finally chose to lead thru the dummy's suit and opened the nine of diamonds. This proved to be a fatal choice.

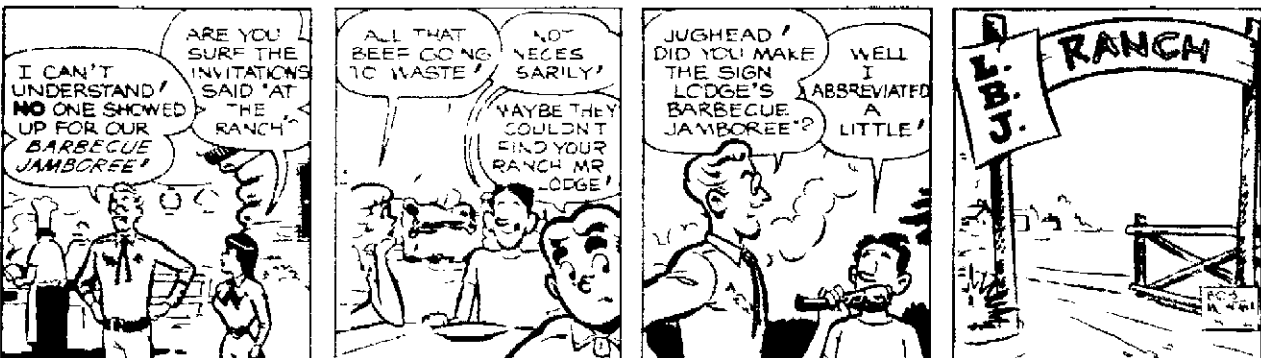

The ten of diamonds was played from dummy and East put up the ace. A spade was returned however declarer could now count 12 tricks. He played the ace of spades cashed the queen of diamonds and proceeded in all to take four clubs six diamonds one heart and one spade.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Get an early start and use the most efficient methods in your work. Skip the non-essentials and pay special attention to the small details which put the finishing touches to a successful picture.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Planetary influences are restrictive in some matters, friendly to others. Feel your way prudently, but not fearfully. Avoid useless activities.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Similar to Taurus now, but you may have to concentrate on a new breakthrough in proceedings that have bogged down — with good judgment, of course.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Do not be discouraged if progress seems slow. You ARE achieving and attaining, even though you may not realize it. Stress your qualities of leadership.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Look for a new method or manner in which to approach routine chores. Surprise yourself with added vigor and eagerness to achieve. Results will also surprise.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — If another person seems vaguely distracted, do not take this to mean uncertainty. He may know considerable, be very able. Assume that others have know-how; many will. Judge and talk sagaciously.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Mixed planetary influences. Where you discover an opportunity, grasp it; where you find an obstacle, hurdle it promptly.

But do not side-step responsibility.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — A helping hand proffered? If it will really be helpful, accept readily. Where you must go it alone, it could be a blessing in disguise. Mixed day.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Put all the enthusiasm you can muster into activities. There are fine chances for advancement now. You should do exceptionally well in projects that call for clever organization.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — You can win in a canter or in a walk — IF you have matters and methods selected astutely and if you begin and continue your program with consistency, enterprise, smart management.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Sudden, unexpected moves, abrupt speech, unconventional action could get you into difficulties, and disturb the smooth accomplishment you could easily have now. Be alert.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Handle situations with consideration for all involved, but with firmness. Avoid austerity and coldness, however. Also shun malcontents, dissenters.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by a Sign of action, of desire for personal and general attainment. Your mind is capable of big things, so do not let it dwell on petty matters, skepticism. You make friends quickly; rarely let opportunity slip through your fingers. Shun rash acts, sharp speech; develop your bright mind. Birthdate of Samuel P. Langley, U. S. pioneer in aviation; Claude Debussy, French composer.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

RINGWORM
Ringworm infections are more common in summer because the causative fungi and yeast thrive in a warm, moist environment. The organisms usually are superficial in that inflammation rarely extends more than 1-16th inch into the skin. General health also plays a role in susceptibility as the infections are more common among the debilitated, seriously ill, diabetics, and those receiving antibiotics or cortisone-type steroids.

There are probably 100,000 species of fungi, several which produce identical eruptions. Skin scrapings must be studied under the microscope to identify the causative agent. Other eruptions are so distinct that the culprit is obvious. In addition, griseofulvin, our most important remedy, does not act on all fungal infections.

Candida or monilia infections respond to nystatin ointments, amphotericin-B, gentian violet, and Vioform. Monilia organisms attack the nail folds, palms, groin, corners of the mouth, and under the breasts. The ensuing rash resembles an eczema with itching, weeping, and scaldiness. Yeast organisms may invade the intestine without causing symptoms.

Members of the tinea group cause the usual types of ringworm. These elements involve the scalp, beard, nails, hands, feet, and the smooth skin including the inner surfaces of the thigh. Athlete's foot, the most common fungus disease, is a member of this species.

Some dermatologists classify ringworm into two groups. The first is of human origin. Susceptibility is important because many persons are exposed to the fungi but never develop an infection because of natural resistance. The second group is transmitted by cats, dogs, cattle, and small rodents. Scalp ringworm in children, and some fungal infections involving exposed skin including the beard, belong in this category.

TOMORROW: Air Cooled Comfort.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

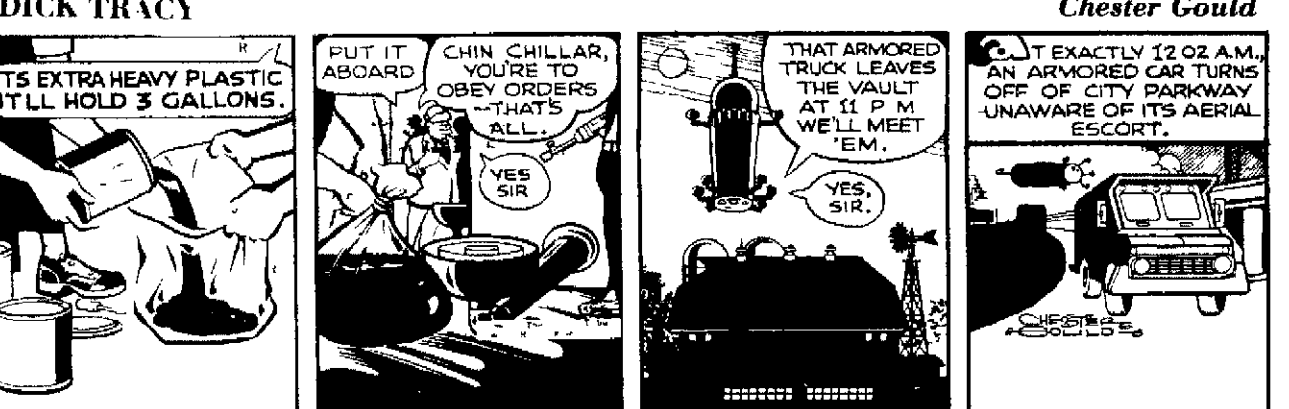

BREATH HOLDING
Mrs. C. B. writes: I have a 3-year-old grandson who holds his breath when he cries. The other day he continued until he passed out. How can I stop him from doing this?

REPLY
You can't, but these children begin to breathe the moment they become unconscious, because they no longer have control of the respiratory system. Breath holding, like temper tantrums, is a temporary habit.

SHINGLES AND NEURITIS
Mrs. D. writes: Is shingles a form of neuritis?

REPLY
A relationship exists between the two. In herpes zoster (shingles), inflammation is confined to the nerve endings, whereas in neuritis the entire nerve is usually involved. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on shingles.

GARLAND GALA DAYS SHOW

An animal and reptile show will highlight Garland Gala Days to be held in the western Warren County community Wednesday through Saturday. Dave Hower, of Erie, displays a 26 inch Bengal Monitor from Pakistan, one of the 1967 additions to the collection. The reptile will grow to five feet in length and change its menu from live mice, sirloin steak, and dog food to rabbits and other large animals. There will be no charge for the many Garland Gala Days features but donations will be accepted.

Tuesday's TV Highlights

PERRY MASON is engaged by a rich, revenge-seeking girl to defend her when a new facet of the old con game erupts into murder in "The Case of the Lonely Heiress" at 5 p.m. on Ch. 4.

THE GIRL FROM UNCLE at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6, 11 and 12 repeats "The Danish Blue Affair," with guest star Dom DeLuise. While masquerading as a physicist, a chameleon-like impersonator eats some cheese that is impregnated with microdots containing secret Thrush information.

COMBAT repeats "Gulliver" featuring Dick Peabody at 7:30 p.m. on Ch. 7. Littlejohn is captured by four French children who hold him for ransom.

THE INVADERS at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 7 guest stars Roddy McDowall in "The Experiment." David Vincent forestalls an attempt on the life of a famed astro-physicist who is prepared to expose the invaders, over the objection of the scientist's son.

SPOTLIGHT at 8:30 p.m. on Chs. 4, 35, and 10 has singer Abbe Lane, actor Noel Harrison and English comedian Benny Hill teaming up for an hour of music and comedy. Also featured are the Michael Sammes Singers and Jack Parnell's Orchestra.

TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES at 9 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6, and 12 screens a re-run of "War of the Worlds," based on the H.G. Wells classic. Gene Barry and Ann Robinson star. A group of scientists, sent to California to study what is believed to be a meteor, discover that the object is a space ship from Mars.

THE FUGITIVE at 10 p.m. on Ch. 7 brings Part I of "The Judgment," in which Dr. Richard Kimble, who has been running from the law for four years, will finally end his long, hairbreadth flight in this concluding two-part
